A Year Of Excitement, Tradition, Surprises Impressions

Resting on a stack of books, freshman Michelle Disheroon waits for her ride home after school.

Tradition plays a very important part in the lives of all high school students. At Garland High these traditions are the building force between each student who steps foot in its doors. Spirit-leading Ollie Owl and the victory cannon are a few of the material things that are evidence of traditions that are still a major part of the school. The majority of these, however, are in the minds and hearts of the students. The creation of the mascot and spirit groups in the past that established these traditions have passed the test of time as well as representing tens of thousands of students through the years. When Garland High first opened its doors, its students set out to make it the best. They created the reputation of pride and excellence that is still evident today. This reputation is not only high today because of the students, but also because of the deep roots that have grown, making Garland more stable and strong every day. As students support their team or club through attendance or participation, they are expressing that Great Owl Spirit that has survived nearly a full century. Whether attending class, practicing athletics, representing our peers or being active in a club, we are all part of the Garland High impression. As we have proven through the years and will in years to come, some impressions never fade.

Surroundings

Marching in the Labor Day parade, the Dashing Debs complete a routine before a partisan Owl crowd.

Joining in the celebration, senior Deb Jeannine Crane cheers during an afternoon pep rally.

As students make their way into the gym, seniors Tracey Duncan and Joyce Brown wait for the pep rally to begin.

As you become accustomed to life at Garland High, you will make friends that will last through college and beyond. As you share the wide horizons of high school with your fellow classmates, a feeling of wonder and pride begin to grow. This is all a part of the Garland High impression. The surroundings and learning atmosphere help to allow the student to reach his goals and dreams as they were set. Every student's experiences, background and knowledge combine to form the Garland impression. Every student is therefore important and necessary to the school. Because of high standards followed at G.H.S., after four years of study every student feels confident and capable of leadership and success. Each student is touched and affected by the Garland High impression, and will be for the rest of his life.

Preserving Our History, Pride

Maintaining Traditions

Adding to the great spirit that is always present at Garland High, the 1986 school year marks the fiftieth year of the present building that we now call the G.A. wing. The wing was built by W.P.A. workers during the harsh economic times of the depression and has since become an institution of pride and excellence in learning. The G.A. building is but one of the physical impressions that have survived only because of continued and evergrowing love that has been expressed by the many senior classes that have since graduated and moved on. Other impressions that remind us of strong traditions are the victory cannon which helped lead the 1963-1964 Owls Varsity football teams to state championships. The overseeing presence of Ollie Owl has for over 20 years been a symbol of stature and proof that Garland High is well above the others.

Wrapped in a blanket, sophomore Renee Rheinlaender tries to keep warm as a cold front moves in during the game.

Passing out roses, senior Karlton Powell participates in the Beta Club fund-raiser.

Performing in the boy's gym, sophomores Vicki Green and Amy Bishop and junior Teresa Shipman play the school's Alma Mater.

The high school experience. You enter the massive building for the first time as a young and impressionable freshman. Each hallway seems to get longer and longer, and there seem to be more and more classrooms. Finally you are lost and late to class. You are affectionately called "frosh", but you manage to make your way to class. Your high school career is underway, and you know it will be something that you will never forget.

Your sophomore term starts. It has been a year since the time that you first entered, but there is still a great sense of strangeness around you. You become more involved, your spirit grows, and you realize for the first time that you love your school.

After an endless two years, you are finally an upperclassman. You receive your class ring and now feel that Garland High has something for you, something that no other school could offer.

Your senior year arrives. You are now not only a part of Garland High, you are Garland High School. It is you that has represented your school in such a way that you are given respect and dignity. You leave the school knowing that your job is done. You can leave in confidence that you have set an example for other classes that will follow in your footsteps. You have had the high school experience.

Participating in the battle cry, junior Laura Cecil shows her support for her class.

The parking lot filled early and the air sparked with electricity as Homecoming day began. Students worked all day to prepare for the week's big event: the annual Homecoming pep rally. Black and Gold!

The colors were everywhere, reminding students and teachers alike of the spirit and tradition that are renewed every year at this time. As Owls and ex-Owls gathered to celebrate the occasion, the love and fellowship grew and sprouted, and the difference of time between exes and present students diminished.

Seated in the middle of the action in chairs on the gym floor, ex-Owls watched as spirit-leaders performed songs, cheers and skits in their honor. The excitement and enthusiasm were high, and the Owls were sure to win. As fans waited patiently for the announcement of the homecoming queen, the varsity football team played a vigorous game, going on to defeat the Mesquite Skeeters by a score of 41-35 with Melodee Walker as its queen.

Comedy Production

The 36-member cast of The Man Who Came to Dinner by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman received a well-deserved long round of applause following performances in November. The cast, ranging from students to administrators and seniors to freshmen was one of great variation and one of the largest that has been put together in recent years.

The man who came to dinner, or radio personality Sheridan Whiteside was complimented greatly by his player, Greg Goldston. While visiting the home of

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stanley, played by junior Mike McFarland and sophomore Sara Williams, Whiteside falls on ice on their porch and is forced to remain in a wheelchair in their home for several weeks. Mr. Stanley greatly protests Whiteside's stay, but realizes later that his word means nothing to Whiteside and his secretary Maggie Cutler, played by senior Nicki Rubio. Among Whiteside's many visitors are four penguins, actress Lorraine Sheldon, actor Beverly Carlton, Banjo, and a coffin sent from Saudi Arabia.

Mrs. Diane Leeman, Thespian sponsor and play director felt it a success: "I was really pleased with the outcome of the play even though we lost nine cast members to the no-pass, no-play law". The Drama Department replaced these lost members and proceeded to produce a successful performance.

After falling on ice on the front porch, Sheridan Whiteside, played by junior Greg Goldston is carried by Bert Jefferson, played by junior Steve Reeves and Dr. Bradley, played by sophomore Richard Holton back into the Stanley house.

Couples Enchanted At Pop Ball Activities

It was once again that special time of the year, transforming the everyday routine of life into a night that would be remembered forever. Student Council members met after school until late the night of Friday, February 7 to begin putting together decorations that were built weeks before. After hours of planning, organizing and preparing, the cafeteria and auditorium were ready. The room normally crowded with students eating lunches was at this point a grand ballroom. The auditorium stage, covered with sand, a waterfall and a treasure chest gave the perfect impression of the night's theme: Enchantment Under the Sea. "It was a real experience putting everything together", said junior Student Council member Scarlett Florez. "It was all worth it when it was over, though." The 1986 Popularity Ball was considered by those who attended to be a definite success.

Standing next to the stage, Pop Ball couples wait to have their pictures made.

Preparing to pose for Pop Ball pictures, juniors Lisa Edmonds and Shane Lamb take their places on the stage.

Talking about their dates, juniors Colette Stanton, Michele Farriell, Scarlett Florez and Michelle Estrello converse in the commons before entering the dance.

Standing in the band hall, senior Gwen McGensey awaits the beginning of the ceremony.

Powder Puff Game Tops Off Twirp Week

As a big success, Twirp Week ran from March 17 to March 21. The first day of Twirp Week was green day, coinciding with St. Patrick's day. Only a few got pinched because they did not wear green, however. Tuesday was College T-shirt day, allowing students to show their spirit for their favorite college. Sunglasses, Jams and pies highlighted Wednesday's activities. During break, a pie-eating contest brought junior Mike McFarland and senior Donnie Wilkerson to a messy tie.

Throughout the school could be seen many students sporting their jams and sunglasses showing their backing for the F.C.A. sponsored event. Thursday was Sweats day, letting students attend classes in a comfortable fashion.

Friday was the traditional Black and Gold day in which juniors and seniors, wearing their jerseys, prepared to duel in that night's Powder Puff game. Tricina McCrainey started the game with a powerful 45 yard touchdown run. Senior Sherri Whitfield scored later in the second quarter from five yards out.

The halftime score resulted in a 12 to 6 lead by the seniors. At halftime, senior Wade Marlow, Twirp King of 1986, was driven around the stadium by Brady Phipps in a 1963 Chevy Impala after being crowned by former Twirp King Steven Derrick. Junior Rosalind Smith scored in the second half to give the juniors 12 points for the game. The final score showed a 21 to 12 victory for the seniors.

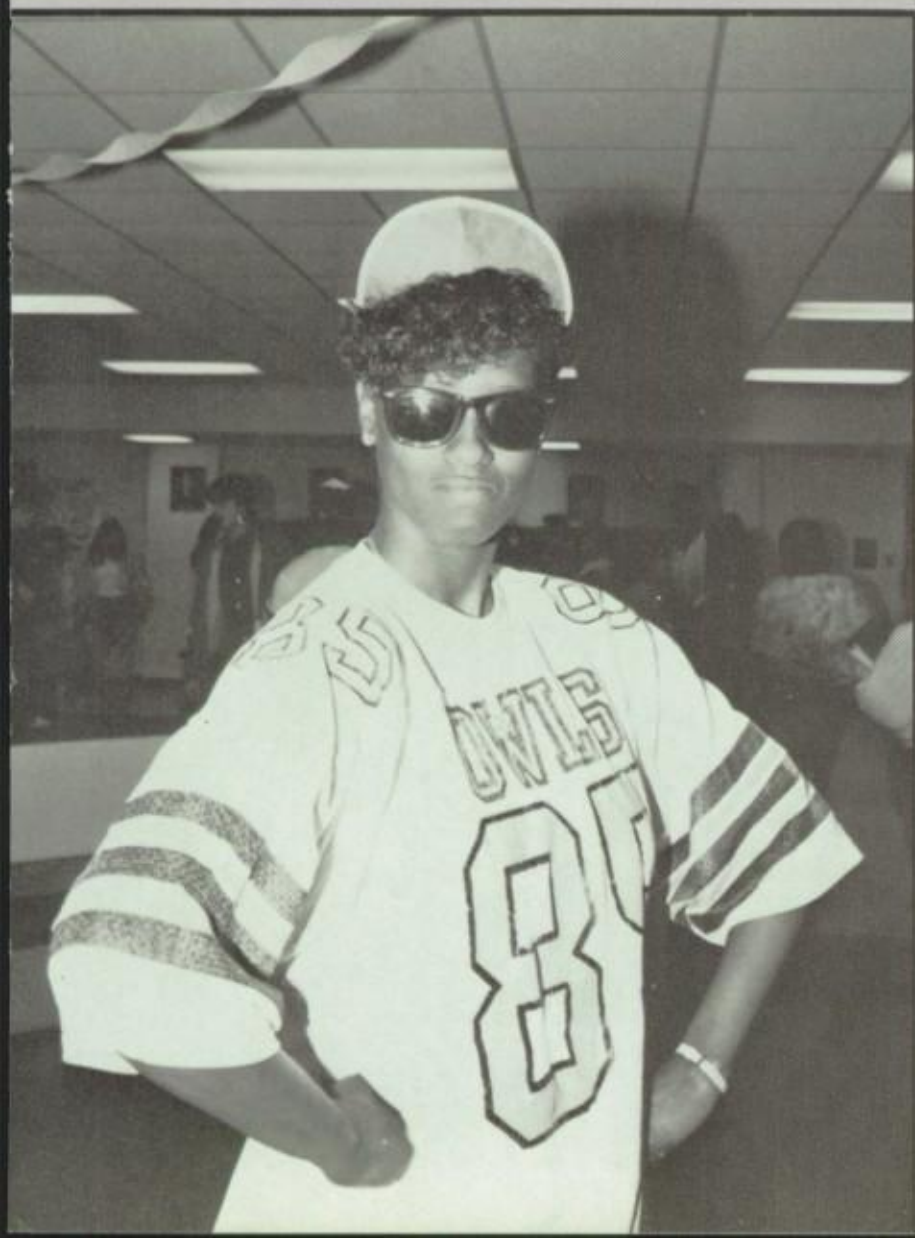

Discussing plays for that night's game, junior Powder Puff football players make last-minute adjustments to their strategy.

Yelling during the break pep rally, senior Powder Puff football players show their enthusiasm for the upcoming game.

Peterson, Powell Capture Top Honor During Award Ceremony

As a token of appreciation for the hard work and support given to Garland High, seniors are given a day at the end of each year to receive this well-deserved recognition. The 1986 Awards Day assembly was held on May 21, where over $260,000 in scholarships were given by organizations, the school, and universities to deserving seniors. Parents, teachers, and students watched as award after award was given, waiting for the final moment when the Valedictorian would be announced. Preston Peterson was named Valedictorian, and Karlton Powell was named Salutatorian.

Their honors not only showed them to be excellent students and involved in school activities, but set them off as examples for future graduates. Both graduated with five graduation skills endorsements, and both were given the opportunity to speak before the student body at graduation held at S.M.U.'s Moody Coliseum on June 7.

Twenty-eight students graduated with skills endorsements covering everything from band to mathematics, and over 30 students were recognized for success in UIL competitions. The student who received the overall highest scholarship amount was Richard Dugger, who was given a total of $29,800 in funds to further his education at Baylor University.

The presentation ended with the announcement of 37 honor graduates with a grade point average of 10.5 or above and the final announcement, the Valedictorian. "It was no doubt a honor," said senior John Strickland, who graduated third in his class. "It made me feel like I fell short, though, when I should have tried harder and been Valedictorian or Salutatorian."

As senior Dalton Lytle led those who attended in the singing of the Alma Mater, was finally certain that pride and success at Garland High go hand in hand.

Holding their trophies, senior Preston Peterson and Karlton Powell are given a standing ovation after being named Valedictorian and Salutatorian, respectively.

Awaiting the announcement of the Valedictorian, seniors Leigh Ann Splawn and Kyle Herbold stand as fifth and sixth in their graduating class.

Being recognized as honor graduates, seniors Erica Miller and Anthony McKenzie stand in a line across the gym floor at the awards assembly.

Fours Years Of Fundraising Creates Memorable Evening

The plans had been finalized, and tuxedos and flowers were picked up. Four long years of fundraising and contemplating possibilities finally came to a climax on May 17 at the Westin Hotel.

As seniors arrived on the third floor and signed in for their prom, they were greeted and given garters to be used later in the garter ceremony. Following pictures, students entered the grand Galleria Ballroom for dinner. The evening meal began with a salad, leading into the main course, Filet Mignon. For dessert, chocolate

Mousse with mint creme was served.

The dinner was officially over when the night's entertainment, "The Works", took the stage. The band played throughout the night, giving its versions of songs by popular groups such as ZZ Top, Huey Lewis and the News and Willie Nelson.

During the evening, doorprizes donated by area businesses were given to students whose names were drawn.

The 1986 Senior Prom, due to the hard work of senior class officers and parents turned out to be an overwhelming success and will definitely be remembered by all those who attended.

"I really enjoyed myself," said senior Bobby Wakefield. "I appreciate all the hard work it took to put something like this together".

Leading his band "The Works" business teacher Charles Crawford sings his rendition of "Always On My Mind" by Willie Nelson.

Before entering the Grand Ballroom, junior Thomas Hayes and senior Sherri Jackson stand outside in the lobby.

Arriving early at the prom, senior John Strickland and junior Jill Reed wait in line for pictures.

Exchanging her ticket for a doorprize, sophomore Stephanie Stovall goes to the stage to pick up her shirt from Mr. Hammerle.

Leaving the prom, seniors John Plate and Wendy Stroud take the escalator down to the lobby where they will meet their limousine.

Seniors Look Toward Future Years

Announcements had been sent out, letting all know that the 1986 senior class was finally graduating. Grandparents, parents and friends were made proud as seniors walked across the stage at Moody Coliseum on Saturday, June 7 to receive their diplomas. "Graduation is a great accomplishment after twelve years of hard work," said senior Nalen Naidoo. "Now I am looking forward to the next step".

The classes and teachers that filled the majority of the last twelve years became memories as seniors listened to the traditional speeches of Valedictorian Preston Peterson and Salutatorian Karlton Powell.

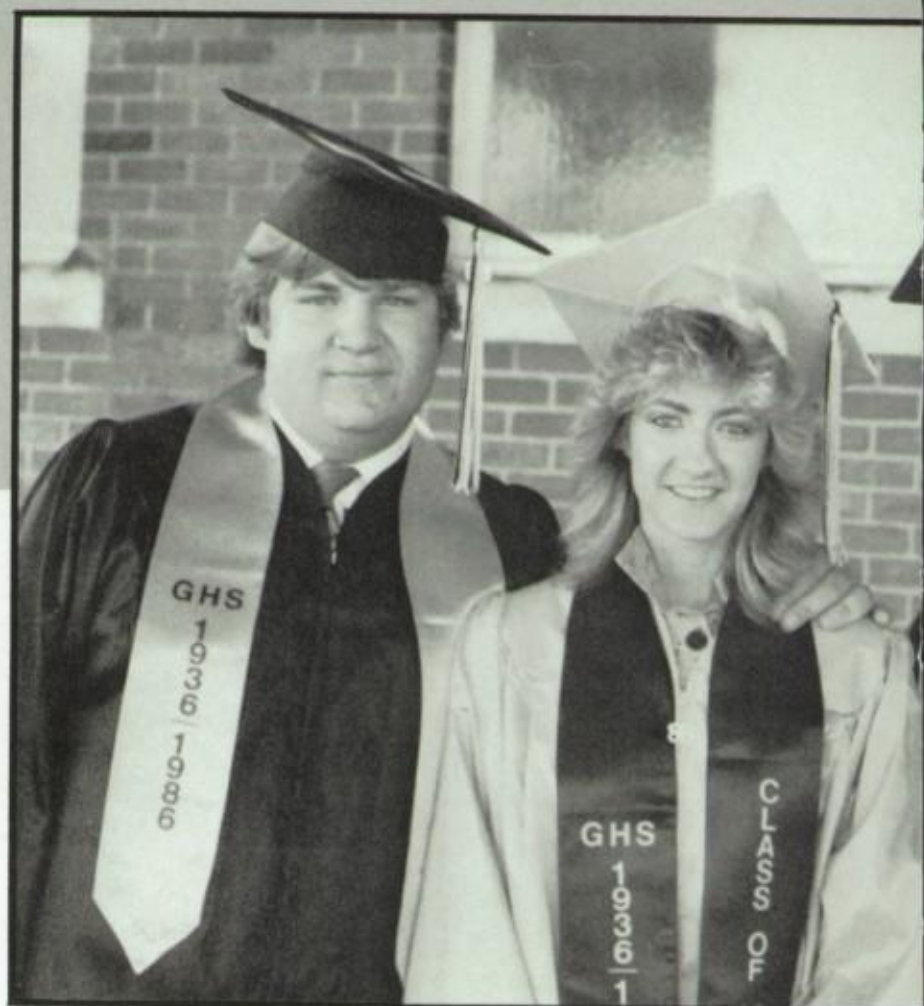

As the seniors assembled in the long line, final preparations finally were put into action in the 10 second walk across the stage that topped off the long hours of study and achievement.

Preparing to enter the coliseum, senior Todd Moody waits for his turn to walk under the direction of Assistant Principal Cliff Mowery.

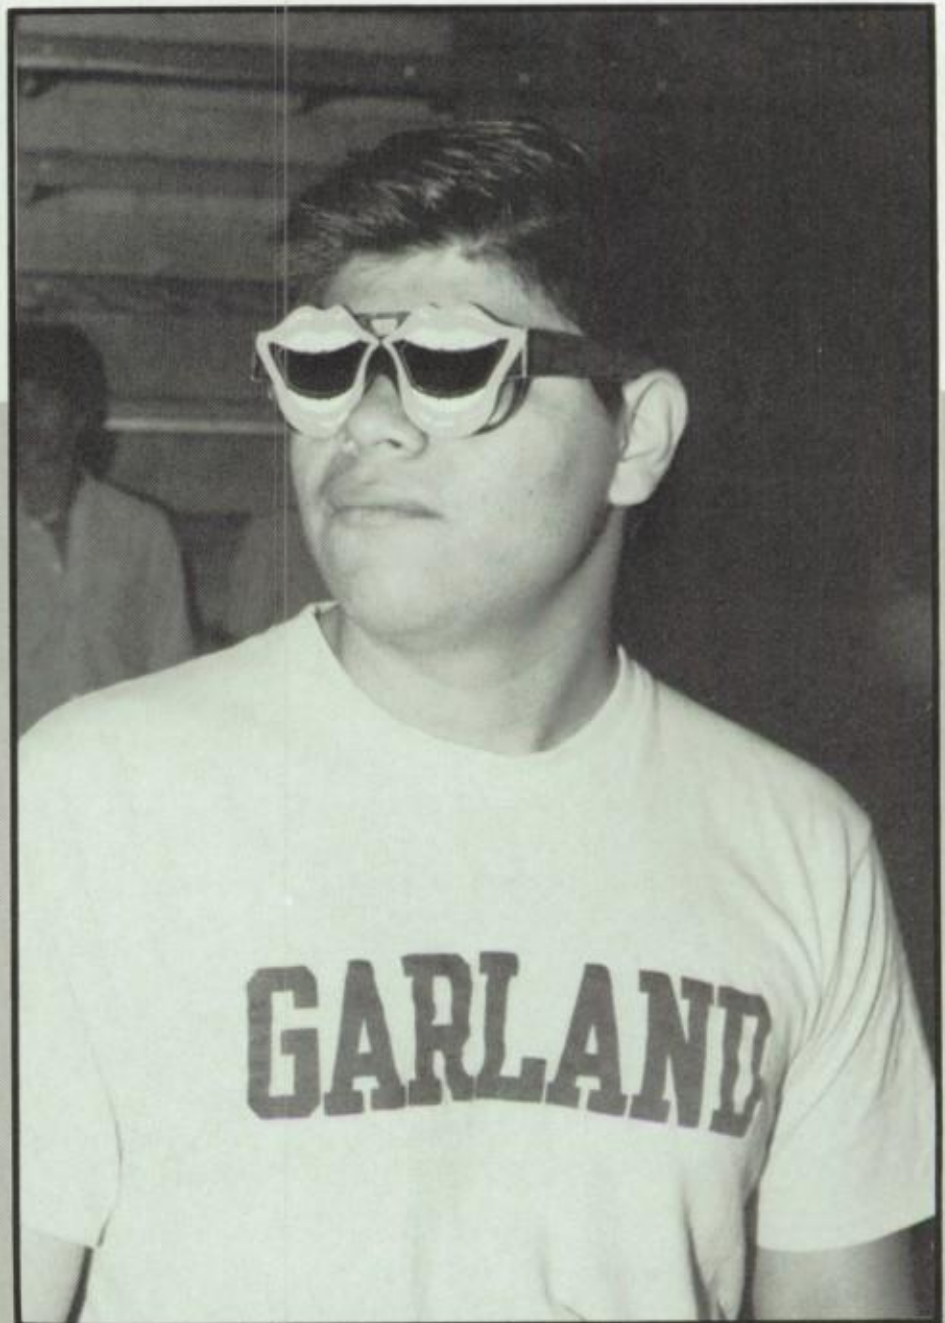

Standing outside Moody Coliseum after graduation, seniors Sam Jones, Shelby Drum and Richard Franklin spend their last moments of high school together.

Showing off her diploma, senior Stephanie Campbell waits for the end of the ceremony after walking across the stage at graduation.

Wearing the newest in sunglass fashion, senior Jay Parker listens to instructions during graduation rehearsal.

Receiving flowers, senior Martha Gonzales and her parents pose for family pictures after the commencement ceremony.

Notebooks Express Individuality

Each student has his or her own idea of fashion and what is in style. When someone walks through G.H.S., he sees many different fads and fashions in the attire of students. One would not think, however, that this would be true for notebooks also.

Many students take pride in their appearance, and notebooks are a large part of the impression that these students give off. Just as there are students who take pride in their appearance, there are those who consider notebooks to be a major part of this.

Notebooks vary greatly from student to student. One particular style of notebook that seems to be popular with students is the binder with the clear, zip-lock pockets. All kinds of interesting objects can be found in these pockets.

The most popular of these seems to be pictures of best friends or boy-friends or girlfriends. Pet and rock star pictures also fill many notebook pockets.

Other articles include poems, pens, beltloops, bandanas, money, gum, candy, makeup, combs and many other necessities.

What can be determined is that articles found in notebooks can say at least a little about a person's appearance and opinion concerning fads and fashions.

Featuring letters, tickets and photographs, students' notebooks express their personalities.

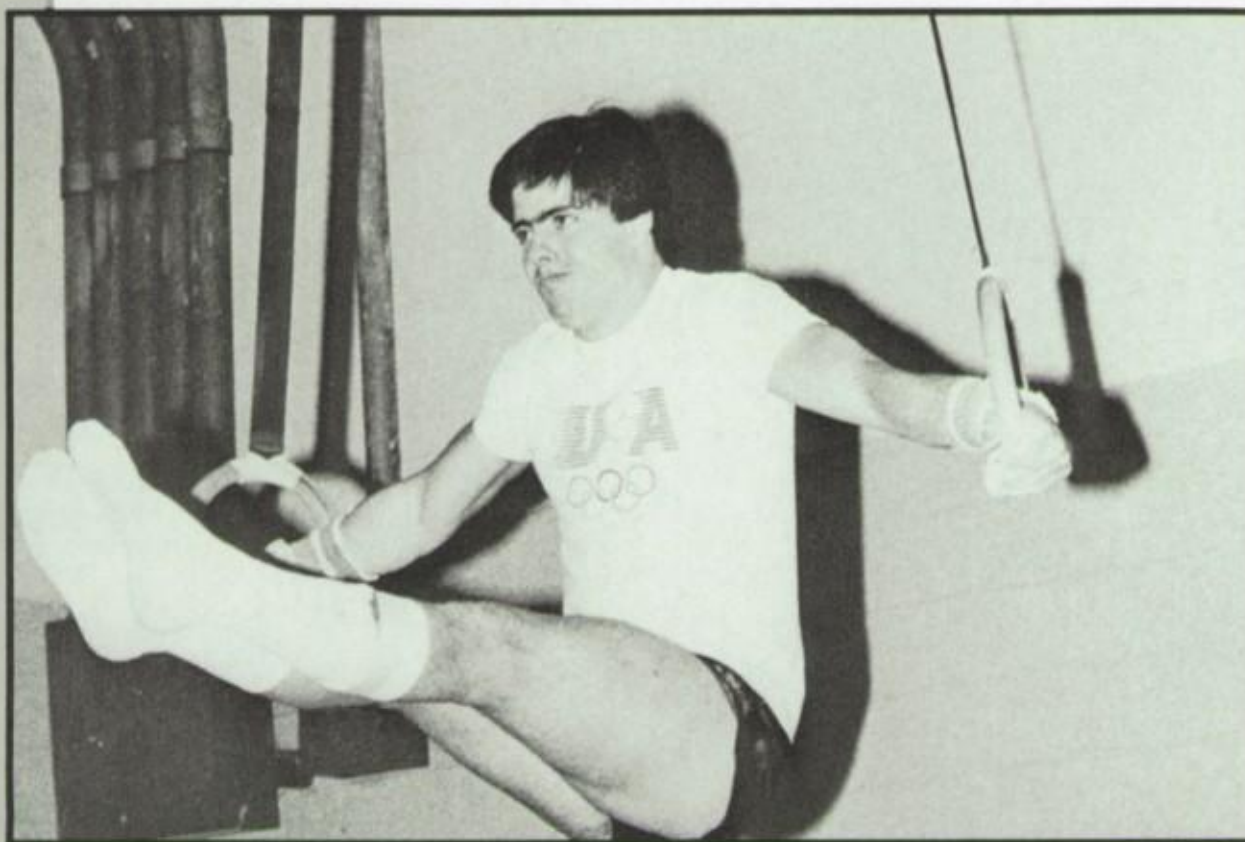

Poll Reveals Fashions

A poll taken in the spring revealed students preferences in dress. Many said that they preferred clothes that were comfortable. The survey showed that clothes that were comfortable to some were not as comfortable to others.

For example, we discovered that some students preferred to wear jeans, nice shirts, and ropers, while others preferred to wear T-shirts, tennis shoes, and of course, jeans. But, very few chose to wear dressy clothes, such as dresses, slacks, ties, etc . . .

So, as an overall survey, all students had their own ways of dressing. The styles that the students wore were usually the ones that fit them best.

Lyle Scott Places First In Floor

Setting high standards and spending many hours after practice has been the key to sophomore gymnast Lyle Scott's success. He has proven to be one of the best in the state.

Scott began the season ranked as the top gymnast in the district. He won the district 9-5A all around title and placed second in the regionals. Scott's finest hour was later accomplished in the state meet. "My most satisfying win was placing first on the floor event at state," said Scott, "The competition was tough because it was against the best gymnast in the state."

Scott missed the state floor exercise record by one tenth of a point. He finished second in the vault exercise, third on the parallel bars and fourth on the high bar. "Next year I hope to place first in a lot more state events and possibly win the State all-around," said Scott.

The Sophomore's closest competition throughout the state meet was Berkner's Sean Sims. Scott and Sims stayed close throughout the state competition but Sims later edged Scott in the overall standings. "As Sims and I went through the competition, our scores were almost the same, but in the end, he won by three tenths of a point," said Scott.

One of Scott's biggest concerns for next year is to help increase the size of the gymnastic team. Throughout the year the young gymnast has spent a lot of hours working for his own individual scores, but he wishes that the team was larger. "With a larger team, we would be in contention for district next year and we would have a good chance to win,"

Demonstrating the L-cross on the rings, sophomore Lyle Scott prepares for the state meet at J.J. Pearce in Richardson.

said Scott.

Since Scott has become a well known gymnast, he has met a few top people in the gymnastic field. One of his biggest encounters was 1984 Olympic Gold Medalist Bart Connor. "People think I'm crazy when I tell them that Bart is a friend of mine," said Scott, "I like Connor because he is an exceptional gymnast."

When asked about the past season, the gymnast replied in a very conservative manner. Scott said, "I met my goal, to win the floor at state which makes a very happy person."

Locker Decorations Reflect Student Originality

Hanging decorations on locker doors is very popular among our students. The main decorations in girls' lockers are calendars, mirrors, and pictures of their boyfriends. "I hang things in my locker just so people will ask about it," commented sophomore Kristi Hutson. The majority of guys, however, have pictures of their cars in their lockers. The guys, like the girls, keep a mirror handy for those quick touch-ups between classes. "I hang stuff on my locker because most of the other people do it," added sophomore Frank Trillo.

Granted, mirrors and pictures are not the only items hanging in lockers throughout the school. If you look hard enough, you can also see posters, artwork, and memo boards.

Using his imagination to hang an assortment of items that show his ideas are a way to tell a person's way of thinking. Having pictures, calendars, and mirrors, students not only reflect individuality and originality, but they also reflect their interests and personality.

Containing personal effects, lockers often tell a great deal about the student and his interests.

Parents Influence Decision About High School

Garland High has through the years been the alma mater to many, including parents of some of this year's students.

Patsy Lander, sophomore Kellie Lander's mother, graduated in 1970, about the same time South Garland became a rival. "The thing I remember most about G.H.S. was all the school spirit that's still shared by students and faculty today," said Mrs. Lander. "The only way I can really see that Garland has changed from my time is that today's kids are smarter than we were, they know what's going on."

Sophomore Tracy Cannon's father, Johnny Cannon, was a 1967 graduate. He also feels the same about Garland's spirit. "There was a certain air at all times, but especially on Fridays at the pep rallies. We always had a huge crowd to support and cheer on the players," said Cannon. When asked how Garland had changed, Cannon responded by saying that students now seem to have a larger variety of subjects from which to choose.

These parents played an important role in the decisions made by their daughters concerning school. Tracy Cannon said, "The main reason I came to Garland High is because my Dad went here." Kellie Lander made her choice between South Garland, her father's alma mater, and G.H.S.

Special Olympics Turn Out Area Winners

The Ninth Annual Special Olympic Games were held at Williams Stadium on Friday, May 2, 1986. Ten students from G.H.S. competed in the meet which turned out to be an all day affair.

The Special Olympics are held every year, and Garland High School has been competing for five years.

In these games no one is a loser, and everyone wins. All of the participants receive an award. "It makes the students feel like they can do something worthwhile," said Lois Albertine, special education teacher.

The events of the games were the 10 yard dash, 25 yard dash, 100 yard dash, frisbee, long jump, softball throw, 50 yard dash, 440 relay, and tug of war. The students who participated were Susan Basham, Lovie Benton, Kent Dromgoole, Weldon Flatt, Henry Haywood, Tammy Henderson, Chad Jacobson, Tim Tanner, Ingrid Tutt, and Renee Wilks.

Chad Jacobson and Renee Wilks represented G.H.S. in the Regionals. Jacobson placed first in the 100 yard dash at the District meet. "I think it is a lot of fun to run in the races," added Jacobson. Wilks placed first in the 25 yard dash. "I feel like everyone was really proud of me," said Wilks.

The Special Olympic program, designed to allow special education students to participate in athletics, is noted for conveying a winning feeling to all who take part in the day's activities.

Brothers, Sisters Follow Footsteps

Many students attending G.H.S. have younger brothers or sisters currently following in their footsteps. Included among these are: senior Royal Mowery and his younger sister, Dinah Mowery; senior Wendy Reed and her sister, junior Jill Reed; and senior Richard Derrick and his brother, sophomore Neil Derrick.

When asked about having a sister at the same school, Royal Mowery said, "It really doesn't affect me that much because I never really see her that often, except at school functions." Richard Derrick responded by saying that he likes having Neil here at Garland because, "he helps me when I need help and besides, I don't have to keep an eye on him during class time."

Standing in the commons, freshman Dinah Mowery and senior Royal Mowery represent many of the sibling combinations in our school.

Major Revisions To Be Made In Reconstruction Of Girls' Gym

Construction is underway for the rebuilding of the girls gym at G.H.S. The gym was originally built by the Works Progress Administration under President Franklin Roosevelt. The reconstruction was long overdue.

The project was started January 22, 1986 and is estimated to be completed by January 22, 1987. The construction crew has been working steadily from seven in the morning until three-thirty every afternoon. They've been tearing down the old, planning, and rebuilding the new.

In addition to the complete renovation of the interior of the gym, a giant hole has been dug in the area in front between the gym and the art building. The purpose of this hole is for a new addition to the gym which will have an elevator. Some special features which are to be added to the new gym are a weight room and an expanded locker room.

"The cost of the project is estimated to be over one million dollars. The money will be well spent," said Coach Lynette Howard. The reconstruction of the girl's gym is thought to be beneficial to everyone involved with the school. Coach Howard said, "This is a great opportunity as far as the girl's athletic program is concerned."

"The new gym will bring in a better quality of athletes," said Coach Lynn Lipscomb. "For us to have a successful girl's program, we need the new gym and facilities." Randy Leigh, the foreman in charge of the construction of the gym said, "Hopefully the renovation of the gym will last another fifty years."

Under construction, officials hope to have the new gym completed by January 22, 1987.

Successful Prom Highlights Senior Year

The 1985-86 senior class began the school year with great plans and high hopes geared toward raising money for the prom. The class actually began their fundraising activities the summer before the 1985-86 year by taking inventory at Mervyn's. They also ran a dunking booth at the Jaycee Jubilee. Seniors once again showed their enthusiasm in projects such as selling Christmas wrapping paper, cushions and pom-poms, and organizing victory dances and the powder puff game on March 21.

The parent's club was a tremendous help in organizing activities like SantaLand, held at school and at Safeway, bingo at the bingo palace on Garland road, and working the concession stands at Dallas Cowboys home games.

With all of the hard work put in by class officers and students, the year turned out to be a great one. The prom, which was held at the Westin Hotel in the Galleria was a big success. Overall, it has been another successful and fun-filled school year for the senior class. All of the hard work has finally paid off as was found out on June 7 in Moody Colliseum.

All G.H.S. Winners Surprised At Pop Ball Ceremony

Each year at Garland High School, eight seniors are chosen to receive a special award. This award is All-G.H.S. It is a special award because the students who receive this are selected by their teachers. Selections are based on their leadership, dependability, and ability to get along with others.

The award is given at the annual Popularity Ball, and although it is only one of a number of awards, it is considered the most important by the majority of the students. This year's recipients of All-G.H.S. were Robert Waggoner, Amy Lay, Leigh Ann Splawn, James Strickland, Cindy James, John Strickland, Brenda Simpson, and Preston Peterson.

Most of the responses from these students were very positive as all were excited on receiving this honor. Robert Waggoner said, "It is a great feeling to have the faculty honor me with such a prestigious award."

This generally relates to everyone's feelings about the award. Amy Lay said, "It's an honor to have received such an honorable award. I am surprised to learn that my teachers think so highly of me." Cindy James said, "It is an honor to receive such a distinguished award from the teachers."

Simpson, Waggoner Awarded With Coveted Honor

Receiving the award of Mr. and Miss G.H.S. for the 85-86 school year were Brenda Simpson and Robert Waggoner. This is a special award because it singles out the two students who show great responsibility, school spirit and a willingness to help others.

These students are selected by their peers for this honor, unlike All G.H.S. in which the students are selected by their teachers. This year both Robert and Brenda received both awards.

When asked how each felt about receiving the award for Mr. and Miss G.H.S., Brenda said, "I feel that being chosen for Miss G.H.S. is a great honor. It makes me feel like I have accomplished something during my years in high school. I'm glad to know that I'm thought of in a respective manner."

Robert Waggoner summed it up by saying, "I am very honored to know that I have been chosen as Mr. G.H.S. I hope to live up to the expectations of the students and the faculty."

Sitting in the counselor's office, seniors Leigh Ann Jackson and Cindy Bowman review the 1986 college handbook.

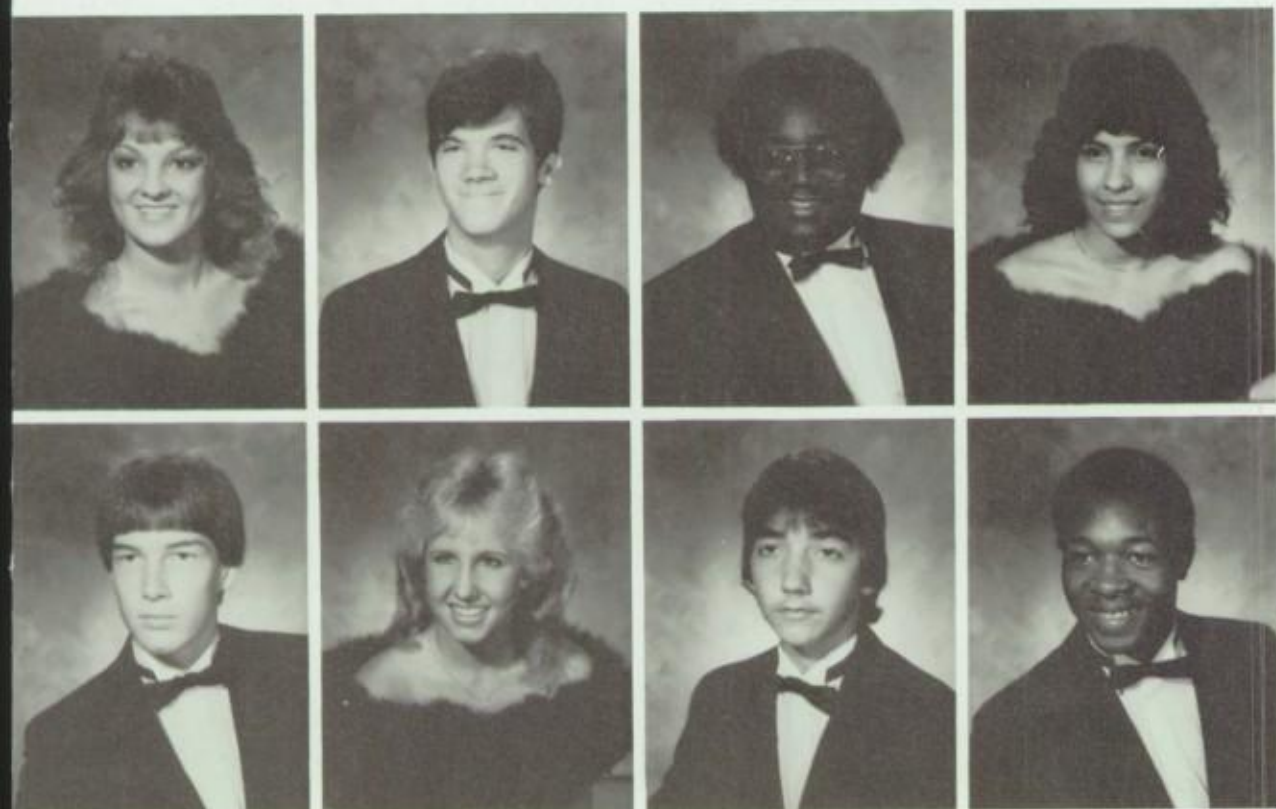

Seniors Plan Ahead, Make Future Choices

The infamous cliché, "life goes on" is especially true for seniors at Garland High School. This year our senior class contained approximately 350 people, which was an increase from last year's approximately 326 people. As the end of the year approached, life picked up around campus, and future plans were being made.

Most of the comments made by seniors in an oral survey were aimed at one idea, "party"!!! On a more serious note, college seemed to be a major concern. "After two years at a community college, I plan to go into pre-med at Baylor University," said senior Bobby Wakefield. Brian Jameson said, "I'd like to be a professional, like a doctor or a lawyer because that is where the money is."

In a written survey taken concerning future plans, the results were quite definite. Most of them have a pretty good idea of where they will go after G.H.S. Only five percent of the students were undecided. Thirty-six percent said they are going to a state university.

Twenty-four percent are going to a community college, fifteen percent will work while they attend college. Of that fifteen percent, approximately four people will just work without going to college. Eight percent of our students will attend a trade school, while three percent will join the military. The remaining category, "other", received nine percent with choices such as private college, modeling, acting, singing, rodeo, hair designing and marriage.

Senior Preferences Revealed

In October of this school year, all seniors received a survey on their favorite things. The topics ranged from favorite colleges to favorite T.V. shows.

North Texas State University was at the top of the list of colleges chosen by seniors.

On the GHS song chart, the rock single "Separate Lives" was rated number one. And on the country chart, the two singles "The Chair" and "The Fireman" shared the winning position. Next, in the soul section, "La Ti Da Ti" was voted the top choice.

The Texas Jamm was voted best concert of the year. In addition to the number of songs and best concert, the favorite singer was George Strait.

The favorite movie of the year was Back to the Future.

The seniors' favorite class was English.

The seniors' favorite car was a Porsche.

The senior class chose Mr. Hammerle as their favorite male teacher. Mr. Hammerle was a graduate of Garland in 1973. Mrs. Johnson was chosen as the favorite female teacher.

The restaurant most seniors preferred to visit was Chili's.

The majority of the senior guys chose their girlfriends as their favorite person, and likewise, the girls chose their boyfriends as their favorite person.

The Cosby Show won four Emmy Awards in its first season, and was chosen the number one television show by the seniors.

Selected as favorite teachers in the student survey, Sarah Johnson and Steve Hammerle take a break away from the classroom.

Juniors Look Ahead

With three years down and one to go, the juniors started out the year working at the Labor Day Parade. "We sold cokes, balloons, bumper stickers and pencils. We all worked hard but it made it worth our while," commented junior Michelle Estrello. During the football season they sold spirit balloons at all the home games. "The balloons were a big seller at the games, especially at the South Garland game," explained junior Scarlett Florez. Another super fundraiser for the juniors was their victory dance after the Homecoming game. All the ex-graduates were invited. They also sponsored a cake-walk and a dance contest. Junior Michele Farriell said, "Our one and only dance had a better turn-out than all of the others."

A Mervyn's inventory and Octoberfest also helped to push the juniors just one step closer to their goals of success.

Sophomores Set Goals

Having worked for two years, the sophomore class officers have shown potential towards a glorious Senior Prom. In no time at all, the class officers, with the help of the sophomore class students, were on their way towards their monthly fund raiser, a paper drive. "We decided to have a paper drive once a month because it not only helped us, but it helped the city, too," commented sophomore class reporter, Lori Enox. The paper drive was held at Axe Methodist Church on the third Saturday with the class making about $100.00 per month.

When Christmas came about, all four sets of class officers were responsible for certain sections of the building. Each had a different theme for their section. The sophomores had the G.A. wing filled with scenes from the theme, "The Twelve Days of Christmas".

During Valetines Day, the Parents Club sold heart shaped suckers. "The sale was great and we earned a lot of money," said sophomore class president, Mark McLaughlin. As the year progressed, so did the fund raising activity. "During Easter we sold bunnies which sold very well," added McLaughlin.

Soon after Easter was over, the sophomore class was at it again. This time it was taking inventory at Joske's and Mervyns. "We made quite a bit of money and had great participation from the students," said Miss Linda Donahue, sponsor.

With new ideas and continued participation, their goal towards a great Senior Prom is within reach.

Receiving the award for All Garland High School from the Sophomore class were Malinda Barnes, Mark McLaughlin, Lori Enox, and Chad Wood. For Barnes and Enox, this award was a first. McLaughlin and Wood both received this award last year.

When the winners were asked how they felt when their names were announced, their reactions were similar.

"I felt honored that my teachers respected me enough to vote for me," commented Mark McLaughlin.

"At first I was real surprised because I wasn't expecting it, but then I felt glad that my teachers liked me," replied Lori Enox.

Students Choose "Ideal" Person

There are many different opinions about what is the ideal person. A poll taken during the spring revealed that this person is not a movie star, but a student right here in the school.

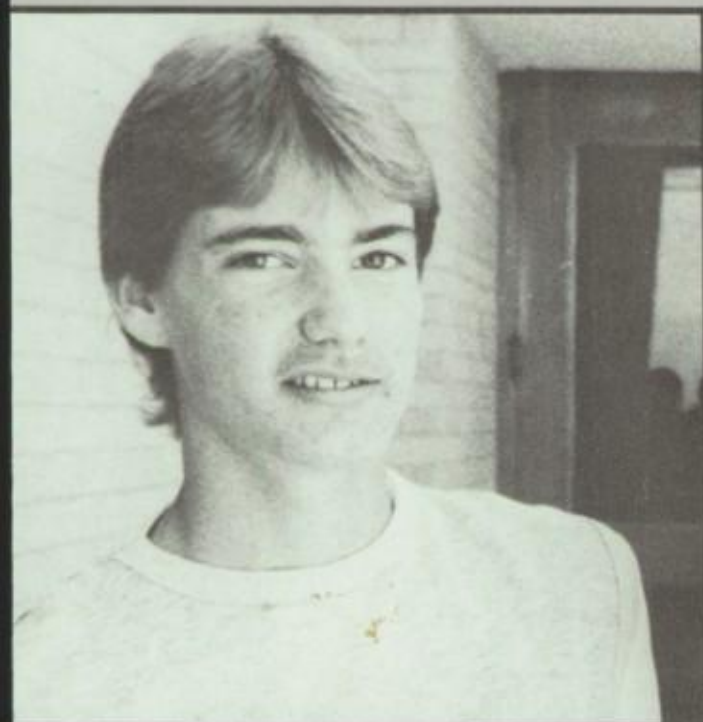

Both males and females in the school responded that blonde hair and blue eyes were characteristics of the ideal person. "I like blonde hair and blue eyes because it's more outstanding," commented sophomore Kristi Hutson.

The height and age of the ideal person varied quite a bit from that of hair and eye color. The majority of the females polled wished this person to be at least six feet tall and two or three years older than themselves. The males, however, wanted a girl 16 or 17 years old and between 5'6" and 5'9". "I would rather be older and taller than her," said sophomore Dexter Brewton.

Freshman Class Completes First Year

Adapting to high school is not as easy as it seems. Being a freshman is a trial at first, but most are able to adjust as the year progresses. This year's freshman class is marching toward a successful four years at Garland High School. Getting lost on the first day of school probably did not help matters any, but by mid-September the freshmen established themselves by joining clubs, participating in school activities and running for offices.

Being one of the freshman class officers is an important step for many. The freshmen earned about $300 selling black and gold school jackets. The class sold green carnations on St. Patrick's Day and had a garage sale during the month of April.

The freshman class planned many fundraisers in an attempt to have a successful prom at the end of their senior year. Treasurer Kristi Williams commented, "Being a freshman class officer has taught me many things. It has taught me to be responsible and how to work with others."

Frosh Make Premier

The award of all GHS was given to four outstanding freshmen. These students are chosen on the qualities of leadership, strong character, positive attitude scholarship, and their ability to get along with the other students. The students receiving the award this year were Dinah Mowery, Chris Chappa, Kelli Morris and Matt Landgraff.

"I think getting All GHS was a great honor. I'm glad to know the teachers think so highly of me," said Chappa.

Since this was the first time these freshmen were given the chance to receive such prestigious honors, many did not know what to expect. "I was so nervous," said Kelli Morris. "I had never done anything like this before, so I really didn't know what to expect."

Selected as an All-America nominee, freshman cheerleader Lea Geiger was honored among her peers at the SMU camp.

Posing for individual pictures during August, freshman Lea Geiger prepares for the beginning of the school year.

Nomination Surprises Geiger During SMU Summer Camp

Many of us have no recollection of what we were doing or where we were last summer on Wednesday, June 12th; unlike Lea Geiger. Lea was one of ten freshman girls nominated to compete for the honor of NCA All-American Cheerleader.

The competition took place at the Southern Methodist University campus, June 9-12. The camp was attended by over 600 girls from all over the state.

On the final day of camp, 10 girls were chosen on the basis of ability to work well with others, leadership, and their precision in perfecting such skills as jumps, tumbling, and gymnastics.

Out of these ten girls, one is chosen to receive the honor of being an outstanding NCA All-American Cheerleader.

"All the girls were pretty anxious, including me, when the time came for the All-American Cheerleader nominations to be announced. They had already called out the names of the first 8 girls, and when they called out the ninth name, it was mine. Everyone around me got so excited that they pushed me right off the end of the bleachers. It was pretty embarrassing," said Lea Geiger. "Out of the 600 girls who attended the camp, it was definitely a high honor to be nominated."

"It takes a very creative mind, lots of patience, and a little imagination to succeed in everything you do and cheerleading is no exception. I feel extremely privileged just to be nominated. All-American Cheerleader is a great honor," said Geiger.

M.O.B. Freshmen Endure Initiation

"Are you a freshman?" This question has many times been the cause of nightmares or long sleepless nights. The initiation of freshmen is a long standing tradition here at G.H.S., especially if the lowerclassmen happen to belong to the Mighty Owl Band; better known as the M.O.B.

Imagine this: After a long tiring day marching in the sun with other band members, you're looking forward to a good night's sleep. Suddenly there's a knock at your door. You glance at your clock. It's midnight. Three band seniors bust through the door. A small struggle takes place and you find yourself in the backseat of an unfamiliar car whizzing down unfamiliar streets.

Finally, the car jolts to a stop and you tumble out in front of Garland High. More seniors surround you and roll is called. The appropriate answer to your name being called is "I am a worm." You and your newly found freshman comrades are gathered together and are forced into ridiculous looking costumes. Marching "Sierra", the opening number, on the front parking lot freshman Shellie Crites comments "Public embarrassment means nothing to these people, but we don't embarrass easily."

Proving this statement to be true, she joins in with freshmen Bill Baldwin and Joe Ramirez by singing "There she was..." a familiar theme from the movie Stripes.

After marching, you are let back inside to shake as you watch Dawn of the Dead and Nightmare on Elmstreet. The night ends with a story in the auditorium of the "Phantom." "It was definitely a experience. I'm looking forward to seeing next year freshmen suffer," said Shellie Crites.

After a long night of initiations, senior Amy Turner takes time for a short nap.

Costumed as a ballerina, M.O.B. member Brian Essary pays the debt for being a freshman to senior band students during initiation.

Routines Change After School Hours

Being at school from 8 to 4 not including extra-curricular chaperoning duties could put a bit of stress on anyone. Thus, our principals do various activities to get away from the fast-paced weekly routine. They are very much like everyone else.

Cliff Mowery, like many other people, enjoys skiing during Spring and Christmas break. "When I'm not on the slopes, I exercise to get in shape for skiing," explained Mowery. He also finds that working in the yard is an enjoyable form of relaxation.

Going to the movies is one of Debbie Wester's favorite ways to get away from school. "I love going to the movies, sitting in a seat, and really getting into the show," said Wester. Spending time with family and friends also help Wester to relax.

"After so many years of school and all that goes with it, I find that the best way to relax is by doing nothing," exclaimed Bob Price. Price has come to the realization that there really isn't much time to spare between all the different school activities. "When I get the chance to relax, all I want to do is lounge around the house," said Price.

Larry Williams spends his spare time hunting, fishing, and working on his pilot's license. "My latest hobby these days is flying. I find that it is a new way to spend my extra time," commented Williams.

Listening to the radio is John Morris' favorite way to relax. "I love to hear Stevens and Pruitt on KEGL, I really enjoy Uncle Waldo," said Morris.

Even though there is not much time for relaxation, our principals try to get away from school pressure as often as possible.

Keeler Makes Waves

Many people have hobbies, but they rarely have time for them. This is not so for math teacher John Keeler. Keeler is an avid water skier. "I ski any time I get the chance in the summer and winter," explained Keeler. He started skiing with his family when he was nine years old. "Back then it was just a family past-time, we did it for fun," said Keeler.

Keeler was never interested

in competition skiing until he met Ken Tanner in the summer of 1983. Tanner is a five time national trick skier. "Ken was the person who really motivated me to start skiing in tournaments," said Keeler. Keeler has participated in the slalom, jump and trick ski events in several area tournaments.

When Keeler is not teaching he spends his time working with Ken White. He skies at White's private lake in the summertime. "Skiing is my life, teaching is my off season hobby," said Keeler.

High Expectations Fall With Strong District Competition

The Garland Owls opened the season with a quick 3-0 start which presented high hopes throughout the football program. This optimism was later abolished during a tough district season.

The Owls faced quite a few tough district opponents. The North Mesquite Stallions posed the biggest defeat for the Owls, with a 55 point margin. "North Mesquite was one of the toughest opponents we faced all year," said Head Coach Joe Boring. The hardest loss for the Owls came at the hands of the South Garland Colonels. The cross-town rival beat the Owls and left the team with very little playoff hopes.

Even after a slow district start, the program showed some bright spots both with the team and players.

In the Homecoming game against Mesquite, senior Kevin Adkins celebrates a last minute touchdown that gave the Owls a victory over their long time rivals.

Using the machine "cow", senior Holly Swanzy assists junior Scott Deel during a timeout against North Garland in the final game of the season.

In order to ensure precision passing during games, senior Walter Dunagin guides the offense in a scrimmage drill.

During third quarter action, senior Jesse Ramon punts the ball against North Garland in the last district game of the season.

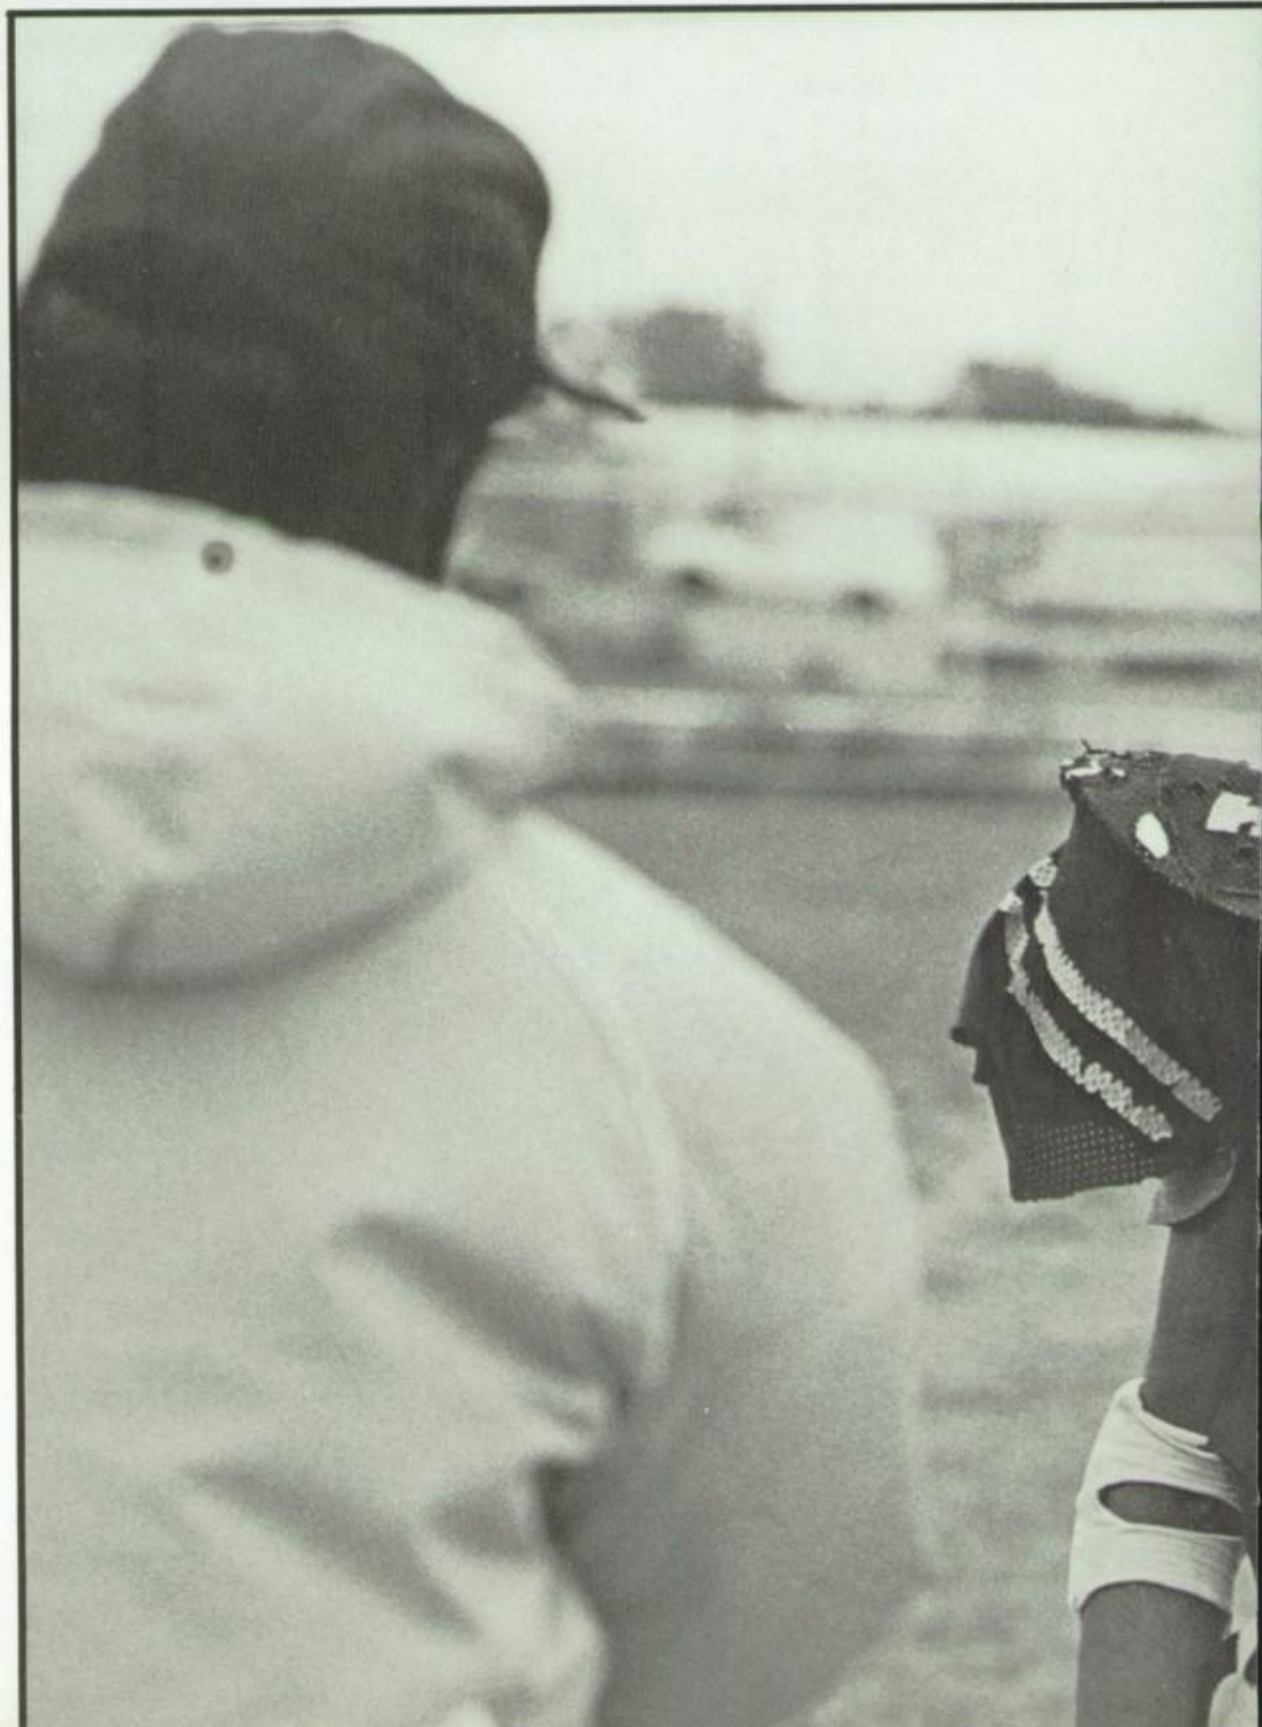

Rushing against the North Mesquite defense, senior Donald Clem makes a final attempt to score against the Stallions who shut-out Garland by a score of 55-0.

In order to stop the rush of the North Garland offense, junior Benny Dunagin tackles the Raider's receiver on a third down play.

Sharing the moment of victory, seniors Kevin Adkins and Terry Smith savor the Owls win over Thomas Jefferson by a score of 51-3.

Doing a neck exercise during practice, junior James Cook listens as assistant coach John Clay calls out instructions.

Owls Finish Season With A .500 Mark

The Owls had some big names in the individual rankings. Senior Donald Clem lifted the defense throughout the season. He led the unit in tackles and was regarded as the best linebacker in the district.

Offensively the Owls were led by running-back Kevin Adkins, who rushed over the 1000 yard mark and was named to the district team. "Kevin and Donald were big play makers on both offense and the defense," stated Boring. Tight end Ricky Alsbrook also received many honors throughout the season including all-district.

This year the Owls were classified by many as a disappointment, but Coach Boring felt the overall performance was a success. "I believe that the players were always trying their hardest. Even when the players were behind they were always ready to play," said Boring.

Challenging his team during pre-season, Coach Joe Boring prepares the Owls during a late summer practice game against Richardson.

J.V. Proves successful Freshmen Suffer Through Tough Schedule

The junior and freshman squads showed great enthusiasm this year resulting in a rewarding season for both teams. Outstanding defensive players for the J.V. included Chad Wood, Darrell Ridge, and Ruben Amesquita. On the offensive side, Charlie Lee, Shane Lamb, Danny Humphries, Kevin Alexander and the entire offensive line greatly contributed to the winning record. The number of players on the team was relatively smaller compared to opposing teams, but our team's motivation can't be contrasted with anyone.

"The offensive line did a good job of controlling the line of scrimmage which gave all of our backs an opportunity to run up and down the field," commented Coach Rudy Montes.

Knocking down a pass attempt, sophomore Chad Wood stops Lakeview late in the first half at Homer B. Johnson Stadium.

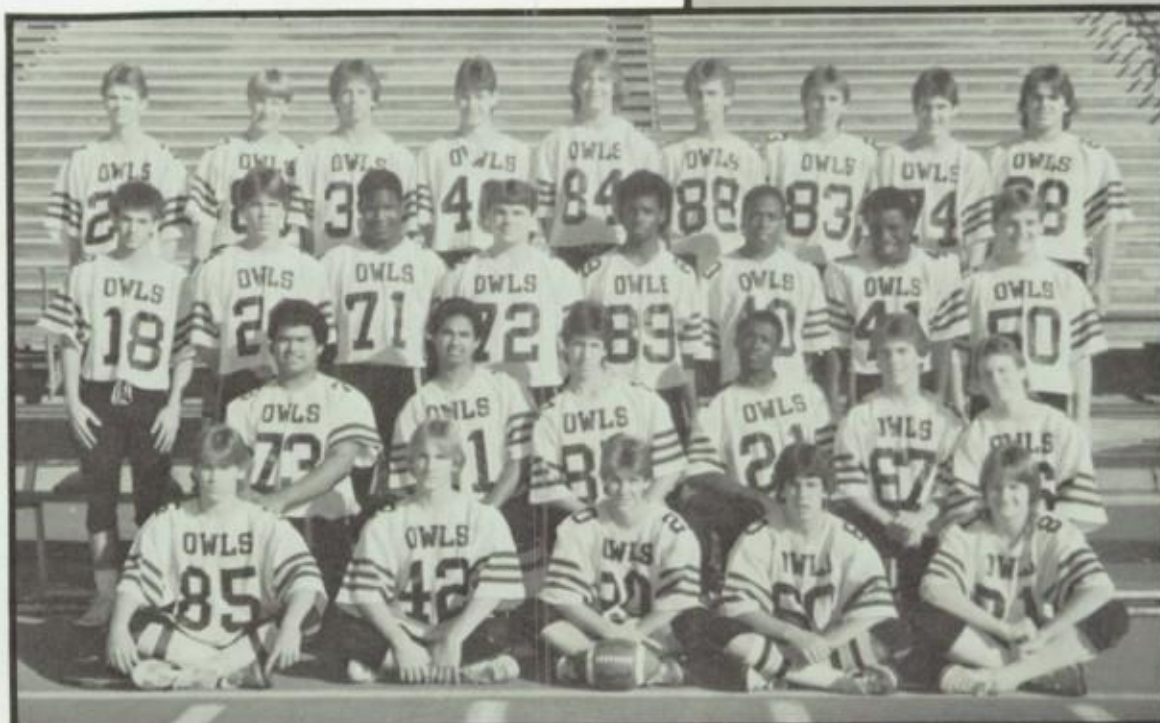

Dropping back in the pocket, freshman quarterback Chad Britton completes a pass against North Garland in district competition.

The J.V. compiled a 6-4 season record. The Owls defense held off Hillcrest for a victory of 18-0. Pinkston lost 7-0 to the Owls defensive performance. Against Thomas Jefferson, the squad won with the score of 51-6. In district play, the J.V. team was very impressive in their 10-3 victory over Wilmer-Hutchins.

The freshman team had an up and down season. The Owls showed improvement with just one team as opposed to the traditional two freshman teams. Both the offensive and defensive teams developed throughout district play.

Derrick Dotson, Irwin Shaw and Chad Britton did an outstanding job on the offense and Irwin Shaw, Robert Prigmore and Brandt Donnough lead the defensive unit. Coach Lee Ferrell said, "I was proud of the way the team played and was encouraged by the players on the team that seek to improve."

Spirit High Despite District Losses

The Owls varsity volleyball team faced a tough up and down season throughout the year which led to a 6-8 district standing and 12-16 overall. "The season was very competitive but I believe it was a good learning experience for the whole team," said Coach Donna Webb.

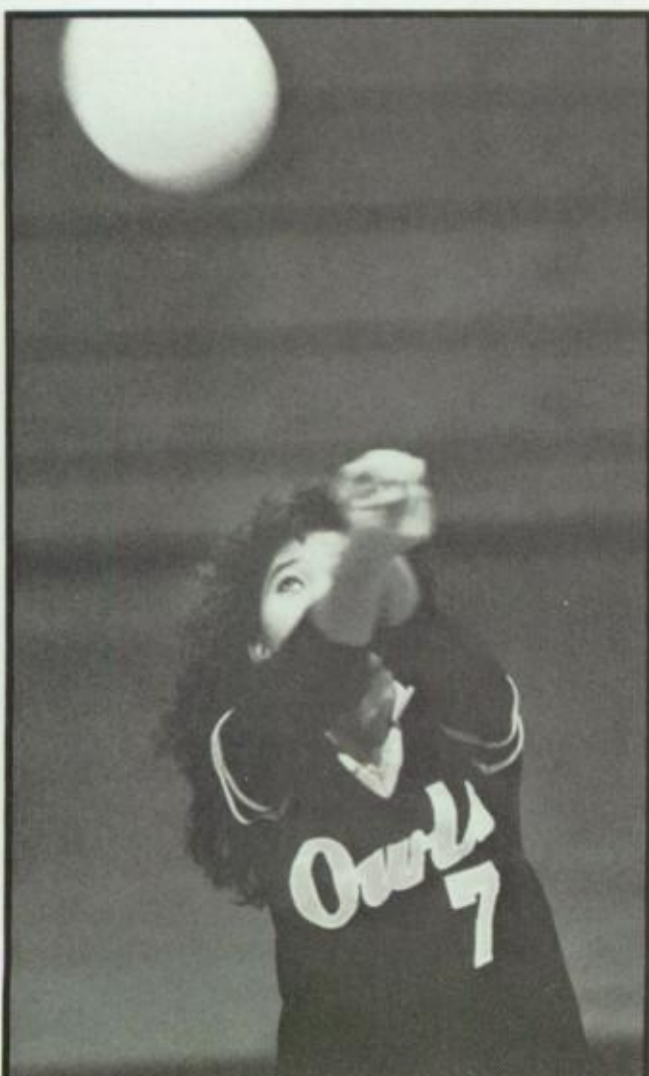

Senior Tricina McCrainey and junior Rosalind Smith provided the team with strong leadership qualities and were successful in posting victories in district play. McCrainey was named to the Second Team All-District, while Smith was named to the First Team All-District. "Both Tricina and Rosalind were good players, they provided leadership through their hustle and their willingness to play hard," said Coach Webb. In addition, junior Freida Crosby was named to the Honorable Mention Team.

The team overall had strong talent at the key positions. Seniors McCrainey and Monica English did well with the play of their sets, with Adrian Chapman and Crosby providing the team with needed spikes upfront. Furthermore, senior Amy Hall proved to be a great asset to the team with her serving and all-around dedication to the game.

"This year's team was better than the record showed," said Webb, "We had hard workers which always makes the season a success."

Reaching for the ball, junior Tracy Nguyen concentrates on the game.

The Girl's J.V. Volleyball played exceptionally well this year despite its season record. The team played over their heads, as far as strategy is concerned. The expected performance and technique was more on a varsity level. The girls ended the year with a 4-17 season record.

The Owl's best game played this year was against crosstown rival South Garland in the last game of the season. Garland played team ball. On offense, the girls served and spiked well.

"Early in the season our strategy hurt us until we developed our skills, and later it helped us greatly," said Junior Varsity Coach Nancy McGee. The experience the girls had this year should really help the junior varsity and varsity squads next year. Juniors Lainie Crites and Debra Davis along with sophomore Laura Hughes were this year's team leaders. Crites and Davis played an important role on defense. Hughes' serving helped the team offensively. Freshman Nancy Nguyen contributed greatly as a setter.

"We had a good crop of freshmen this season, if it continues, we should have an exceptional team next season," says Coach McGee.

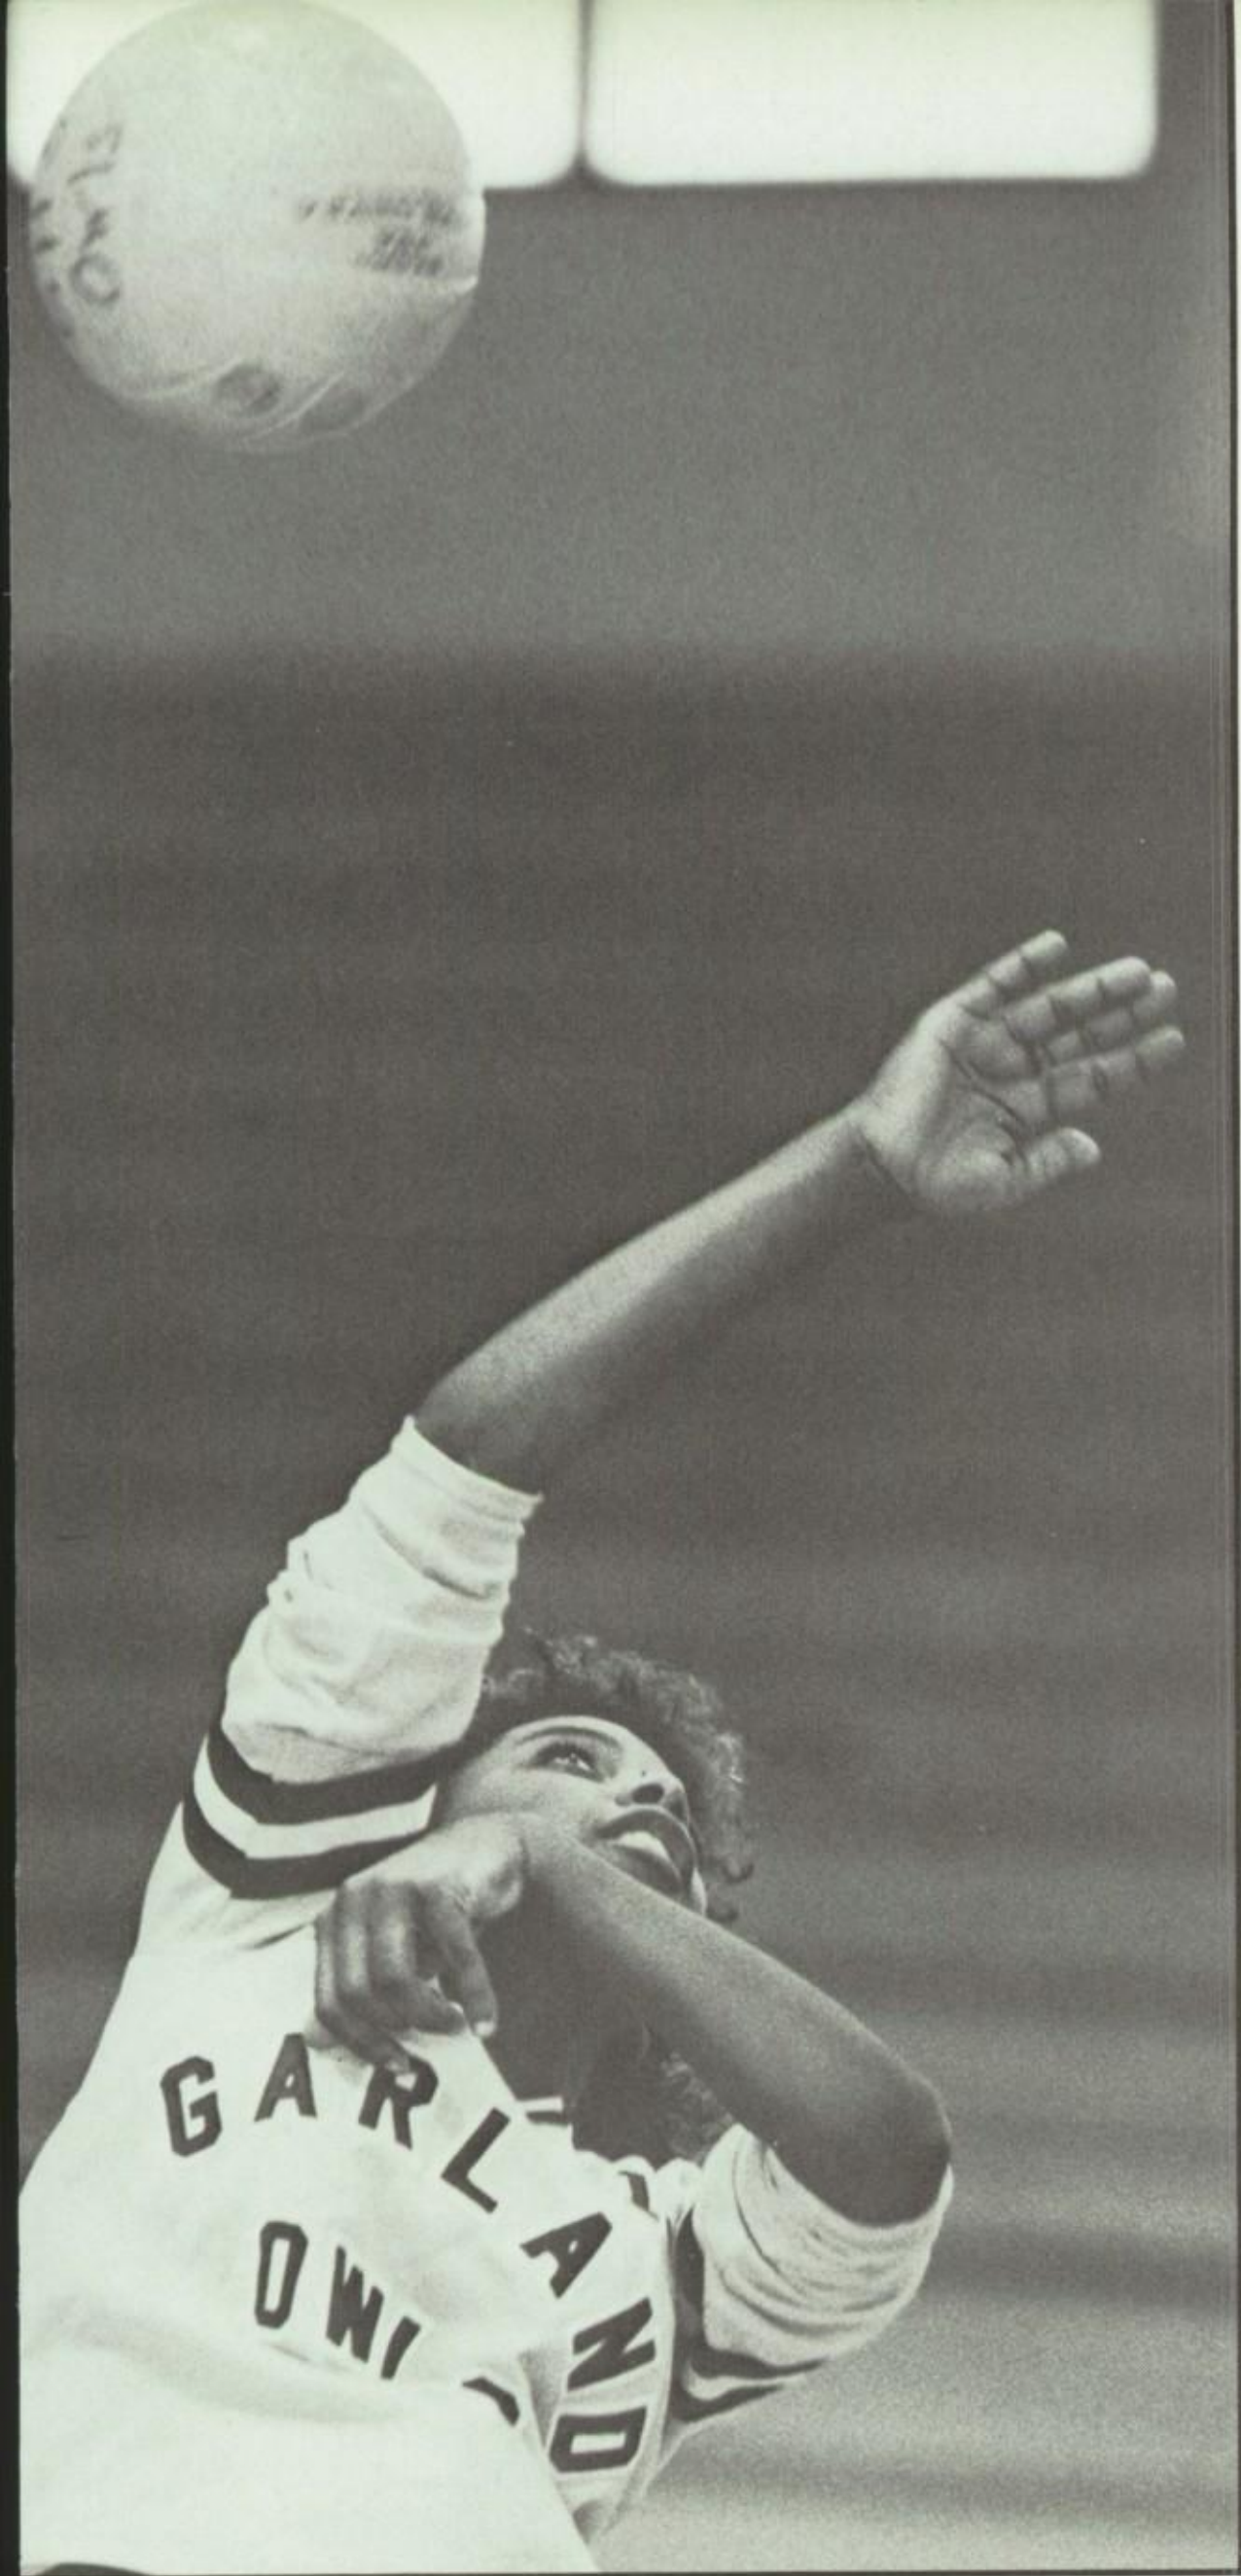

The team will lose a few players to the varsity squad, but is expecting many returning sophomores next year, who should help the incoming freshmen.

Cross Country Qualifies For Regionals

This year's cross country track team showed great consistency with its upper classmen and younger talent.

"We had an excellent year. I felt that the team worked as hard as possible," said Coach Lipscomb. Senior Sherri Whitfield and junior Cindy Dunagin picked up from last year to lead this year's team. "Cindy and Sherri stayed very consistent during the whole season," said Lipscomb. The program also had good performances from junior Sonya Eaton and sophomore Crystal Coleman.

The biggest surprise on the varsity squad was the performance of the young freshman runners: Niki Hunter, Beverly Wright, Shannon Davis and Veronica Rodriguez. "The freshman did a good job this year. It is really exciting to work with such young talent," said Lipscomb.

"The team's biggest highlight was qualifying for regionals for the first time," said Lipscomb. This outstanding accomplishment came about in the team's third year of existence.

The J.V. team had a good year overall. The team was led by sophomores Karen Atkinson and Heather Rynerson. The team placed first in the St. Marks meet and second in the Spruce meet. "I feel good about the team and its achievements. I am really excited about the younger emerging talent," said Lipscomb.

Determination, hard work and a few attitude adjustments proved beneficial to the 1985-86 swim team. With a season record of seven victories and only one loss, the swim team has come back stronger than ever.

Their success was due largely to a more positive attitude toward swim competition and their increased competitive nature as they grew more confident with each win. The first meet of the season took place at Richardson High School, resulting in a 75-71 victory for the Owls.

The Grand Prairie meet was the biggest win of the season with the overall score of 110-64. This encouraged the team to practice even harder.

The first and only defeat for the Owls was dealt by South Garland in the last meet of the season.

Scott Parsons headlined the news with his many swimming achievements and feels that the year was good for him and the team. "This being the fourth year that I have been swimming, I have seen the greatest personal commitment to success by every member of the team," stated Parsons. According to Parsons, the swimmer who made the most improvement over the year was Jack Hester. "This year Jack did his best and it shows in his work," commented Parsons.

Shannon Parsons, brother of Scott, feels that he gained speed and endurance over the past season. He thinks the team has shown just how powerful it can be when it sticks together.

This year's tennis team found hard times during the district tournaments and throughout the season. A lack of experience and confidence was the team's biggest setback.

To gain the experience that the team requires, Coach John Blank feels that he must develop players starting from their freshman year. "The team needs younger students who can gain experience in tennis and younger students who enjoy the game," said Blank.

Both the boys and girls teams showed great leadership qualities from certain individuals. The girls team was led by senior Cindy James, "Cindy always tried her hardest, both in game situations and in practice," said Blank.

The boys team was inspired by senior Richard Dugger and junior Shannon Shaw. Both Dugger and Shaw were consistent throughout the year, which was represented in the final standings. "Their individual records resulted in a near 50 percent average," said Blank.

Even with the lack of experience and confidence, Blank felt that his team improved tremendously over the year. Blank felt that the mental game was the most difficult to conquer.

If the team can overcome their problems, the outlook for next year can be very optimistic. "We have a lot of returning players for next year which I feel can help us overcome some of our problems," said Blank.

Soccer Teams Feel

Major Frustrations

Both the girl's and boy's soccer teams faced many tough obstacles which led to a disappointing district record, but both teams gained experience for next year.

The boy's team faced the district with a lot of underclassmen which led to many losses. The team began the season against Rockwall which resulted in a 3-2 loss. Their final record proved to be a long season for the team and its coach. "We had to play a lot of freshmen, which I felt was a disappointment. The team also lacked experience," said Coach Terry Gambill.

Even though it was a tough season for the boys, they found some bright spots in key positions. Pete Kedward showed the biggest improvement at the forward position. James Brezik is considered to be the best player on the team. "James is the best all-around player on the team and is always trying to improve his game," said Gambill.

"If the underclassmen return we will be a better team next year," stated Gambill.

The girl's soccer team's biggest problem throughout the season was the no-pass, no-play rule, and injuries, but they made up for losses through their determination.

"There was a lack of experience on the field, but they made up for the talent, in their hustle," said Coach Nancy McGee. The team's biggest leader was senior Amy Hall. "Amy was named captain of the team because of her leadership qualities. She will be a great loss next year," said McGee. "The team's leading scorers were freshmen Karen Ramirez and Rosie Carrasco. The younger players such as Karen and Rosie should show some experience on next year's team," said McGee.

Even through some tough losses Coach McGee felt very good about the season. "They played over their head but showed a great attitude even when they lost and they proved to be very hard workers," stated McGee.

Overrated Owls Suffer Downfall

The Owl basketball program entered this season as the favorite to win the district 9-5 title and advance into the playoffs. The performance of the team led to one of the biggest disappointments in the district.

Many of the preseason polls predicted the Owls in the top five. What people saw was a highly overrated team which faced a great deal of inner problems. "We faced a lot of problems that I didn't expect. This was the main reason for the team's downfall," stated Head Coach Lane Norsworthy. "It was losing Neil Derrick in the middle of the season. I also felt that inexperience in key positions took its toll," stated Norsworthy. Another key to the basketball downfall was the early losses to underrated teams. The biggest loss of the season was the surprising effort from Bishop Lynch which led to a major drawback in the Owl program. Berkner and Bryan Adams also defeated the Owls in the Coca-Cola tournament held at Garland. "If we had played more as a team and were aware of our early games, I feel we would have done better in district play," said Norsworthy.

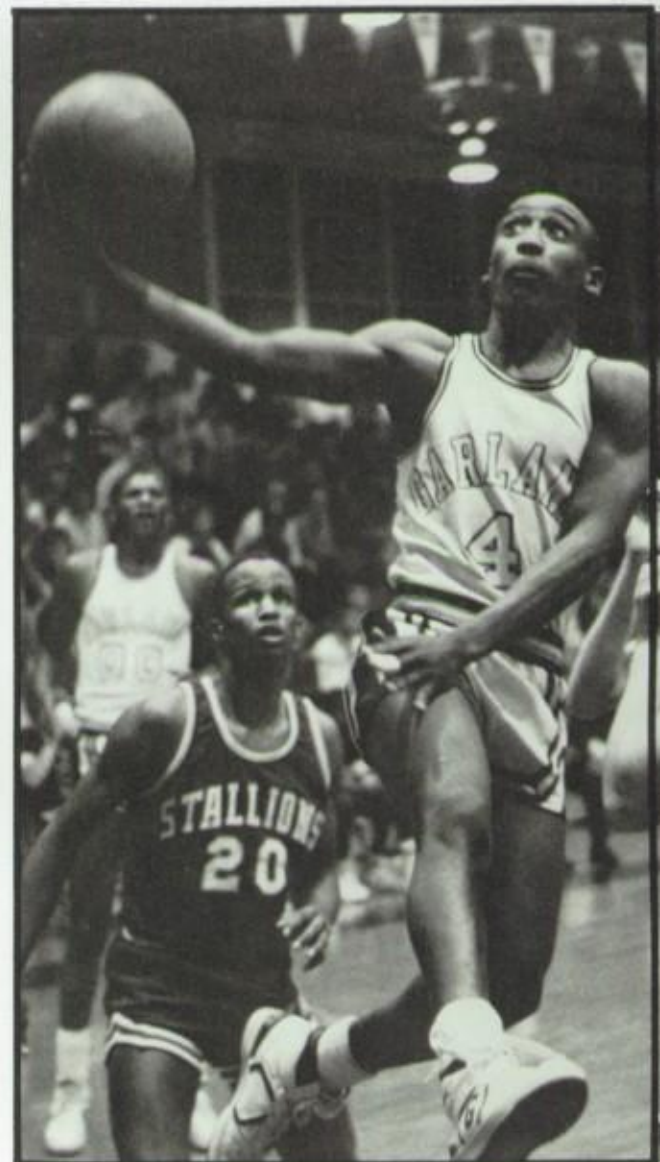

The Owls found some hope even after a bad district record. Richard Derrick showed fans why he is considered one of the best in the state. Derrick averaged 23.4 points and 14.1 rebounds a game. Richard did suffer a knee injury during the end of the season, but it was not severe. "Richard did the best I could ask for, but nobody could carry the whole team," stated Norsworthy. The surprise of the season was junior Kenny Estes. "Kenny did a good job this season. I hope he will be able to continue in his efforts," said Norsworthy.

Even after the loss of Richard Derrick, Norsworthy felt good about next year. "We have gained a lot of experience this year and I believe it will help next year," said Norsworthy. Another important thing to remember is that the Owls will not have so much publicity pressure and that they will be better prepared for the worst. "We will have to change our offense without Richard, but I feel that this could be the key to our success," concluded Norsworthy.

Squads Prove To Be Contenders

Although the boy's J.V. basketball team did not produce as many wins as it would have liked, it proved to be a contender throughout the year. The biggest obstacle for the squad was losing too many close games.

"I felt that our season was excellent overall because we played our opponents so close," said Coach Dan Drake. Of the team's first three games, it lost by a total of five points. The team played well even without a strong bench. "We relied a lot on our starting five to play the whole game," said Drake.

This year the two freshman teams' records varied. The Gold team fell from last year's championship season, while the Black team produced an overall good year.

The Black team was led by two outstanding players. The team's best player was Dwayne Watson, who showed excellent qualities throughout the season. The most improved player on the team was Bryan Price, who became one of the team's biggest assets by the end of the season. "Our year was much improved overall, it was my first winning season," said Coach Lee Ferrell.

The Gold team found hard times throughout its season, but had some outstanding players. Shelby Jayroe showed the most improvement. "We had an up and down season, but we did have some good effort," said Coach Rudy Montes.

Despite Strong Effort, Varsity Falls Short

The basketball season of the Varsity Girls fell short of many goals. The team finished the season with a 10-14 season record. Coach Lynette Howard was pleased with attitudes shown by the whole team. "The team as a whole gave me one hundred percent of every game and every practice," said Howard.

The Owls were led by tri-captains and seniors Tricina McCrainey, Adrion Chatman, and Gwen McGensey. McCrainey started at one guard spot. "Tricina was the key to our defense because of her quickness and aggressiveness," said Coach Howard. Adrion Chatman played at the other guard position. Her offensive skills contributed greatly to the team. Gwen McGensey played at the post position on the team. She was the team's leading rebounder and also led the team in blocked shots. Juniors Freida Crosby and Rosalind Smith also were outstanding players on the team. Crosby played at the forward/post position. She had many assists and helped the team both offensively and defensively with her quickness and great leaping ability. Smith played at the other forward position and was the Owls offensive attack. Her shooting ability kept the Owls in many games.

Garland looked very impressive in its non-district victory over Grand Prairie. The Owls were behind for three quarters and came back in the fourth to win decisively 67-48. The Owls lost many games due to inconsistency and tough opponents. "The girls' enthusiasm never fell short," said Coach Howard.

Golf Team Suffers Sub Par Performance

The players worked hard and continued to improve all year long, but the 1985-86 golf team was very inexperienced. The Owls were led by junior Landon Griffin. Griffin played in the first position for most of the year. A number of players, however, had lowest scores in various tournaments.

Their low scores really increased competition among the members of the team," said Coach Cozby, "This created a desire to improve which several players did." Strong tournament outings included the Denton tournament in which the Owls' 18 hole team score was 388. The Owls also played very well in the district tournament. Landon Griffin was the low scorer for G.H.S. The Owls finished with a team score of 387, an improvement over the 392 score posted last year.

Coach Cozby has an optimistic outlook for next year's team. Garland has all lettermen returning and two current G.H.S. students have already qualified for next year's team. "Hopefully we will have a good crop of freshmen and possibly other current students on our team next year," said Griffin.

The Owls will have to play extremely well to defeat other district teams, but they are working hard to improve. The tournament scores show the improvement. "The Owl Golf team should be in a position to be much more competitive in the very near future," said coach Cozby.

Girls Win District, Boys Finish Second

The boys track team showed a drastic improvement over last year's team and much of the success was attributed to a new attitude. This enabled the boys to win the city meet and finish a strong second at the district meet.

The leadership of the team fell into the hands of seniors Kevin Adkins, Walter Dunagin and Greg McGill. Adkins showed an impressive record throughout the season. Adkins took first place in the long jump and the 100 yard dash during the district meet. McGill took first in the 200 yard dash while Dunnigan, McGill and Adkins teamed up to place first in the 400 meter relay.

Adkins also placed first in the long jump in the regional meet. Kevin advanced to state after the outstanding regional meet performance. "I feel great about the teams efforts. They all handled themselves very well," said Head Coach Pat Mitchell.

A few underclassmen also produced a fine performance for the track team. In the shot put, Mike McFarland finished second in district, while Milton Henderson took third in the 400 meter dash and Scott Fitzhugh took third in the 300 meter intermediate hurdles.

The team met all its goals that it set for itself this year. Besides doing outstanding in the city and district meet, the team defeated Highland Park. "Our goal was to defeat Highland Park, and thanks to a supreme effort, we accomplished what we set out to do," said Mitchell.

The girls team was led by seniors Tricina McCrainey, Sherri Whitfield and Michelle Stuart. The seniors led the team to a district title which placed them in the regional meet. "The girls track team had a super year. Congratulations go to the district 9-5A champions. I am very proud of the girls," said Coach Lynn Lipscomb. However, the girls season ended with a disappointing regional performance. The highest place that the team could manage was a third in the 800 and 400 meter relay.

Leadership Proves Not Enough For Owls Baseball

The 1985-86 baseball season saw inconsistency among the Garland Owls. Garland finished the year with the 11-18-1 season record. "We had a lot of talent, but we had to conquer the individual play and influence the team concept of the game," said Coach Lee Ferrell.

Seniors catcher Ray Valdez, first baseman Nick Siratt, and second baseman Jesse Ramon assumed the leadership roles on the team. Jesse Ramon was honored for his skills by receiving a baseball scholarship to North Texas State University. Nick Siratt won the city batting title for the year.

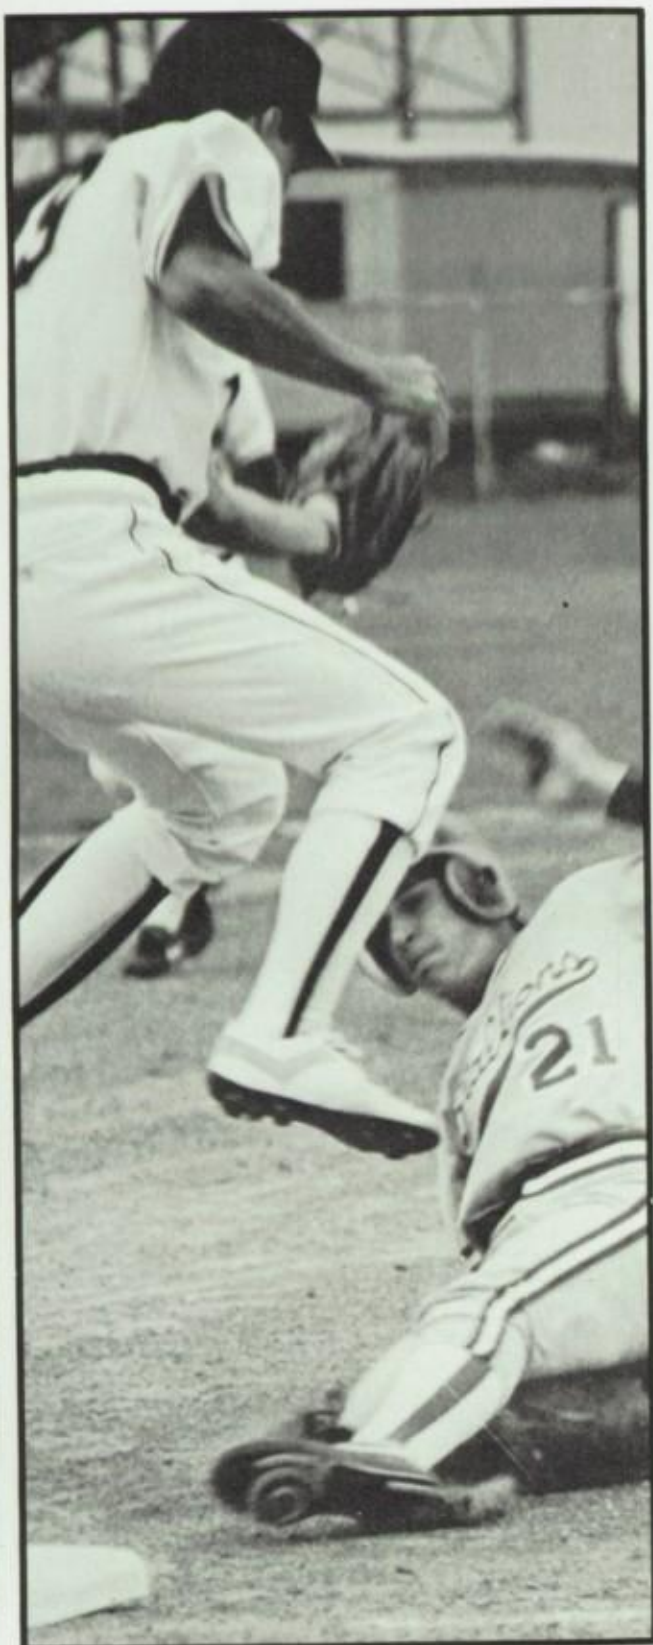

The most improved player for the year was Greg Hollowell. His batting average ranked him among the top on the team and his arm really developed to help him on the defensive side.

The Junior Varsity Owls also had a tough season. Garland ended the year with a 5-10 record. The team's most memorable game was against Wilmer-Hutchins. Garland got the victory with strong pitching from Mark Siratt that shut out Wilmer-Hutchins. The offense came through with six runs. The Owls have produced a few players who have played exceptionally well throughout the year. The players included Russell Simmons, Chuck Harper and Chad Britton.

Spirit Leaders Raise Student's Support

This has been an exciting and prolific year for the ten members of the Varsity Cheerleading squad, their mascot and the Bell Guards. The year began with a very successful and rewarding week for the cheerleaders at summer camp. The girls attended camp at S.M.U. in early June and were selected for the coveted Award of Excellence award. Only seven squads of 250 were chosen, and they performed before their peers on the final day. In addition to this honor, they also received a spirit stick for displaying overall zest and enthusiasm for the duration of the week.

After camp the girls spent the remainder of the summer making signs for the upcoming football season. Six pep rallies and ten football games demanded their attention and presence from September until November. With the help of the five Bell Guards this year, elaborate partner stunts and difficult pyramids were incorporated into cheers. At the culmination of one sport, the girls were given a two weeks reprieve before basketball began.

At the end of basketball season in February, the girls began practicing for the rigorous try-outs held in the spring. A spring banquet was held in late March.

In addition, the varsity competed in and won their division in the N.C.A. competition held this past fall. This victory earned them a berth in the national championship held in Florida during the Christmas holidays.

Teams Promote School Spirit

The Junior Varsity cheerleaders fared well at the 1985-86 cheerleader camp held annually on the campus of Southern Methodist University. The cheerleaders received a spirit stick for their enthusiasm and display of school spirit. The J.V. squad also received the coveted "superior" ribbon, given only to groups who have achieved perfection. Although the Junior Varsity had achieved "perfection", the work had only begun. The J.V. team members were held accountable for spirit arousal at all Junior Varsity games. These games included football and pre-season and regular season basketball.

The Junior Varsity squad baked cakes and pies for coaches and furnished pre-game treats for players.

Members of the J.V. squad underwent the traditional initiation of the "newcomers" early in the year. "It was not as bad as I had expected it to be", said sophomore Kellie Lander.

The freshman cheerleaders also attended camp at SMU and received blue ribbons for superior performances. Out of approximately 600 girls, ten were chosen to compete in the All-American Cheerleader contest. Freshman Lea Geiger was selected as one of these ten and competed for the title.

Besides cheering at all freshman football and basketball games, the cheerleaders sold candy, raising a total of over $600.00.

The year was drawn to a close with a banquet held at the Trail Dust where cheerleaders danced the Texas Two-Step and slid down the slide.

Drill Teams Have Award Winning Year

The Dashing Debs started off the year on a high note by receiving the Gussie Nell Davis Sweepstakes Award at camp this past summer. The girls quickly gained the respect of other teams at the camp by also winning first division superior honors in creative night marching and dance routines. Summer camp awarded many individual honors including All-American Dance Team for captain Jeannine Crane. Marialou Milam was selected as most outstanding dancer at camp. "Being selected Most Outstanding Dancer made me feel that everything I had been working for for the past three years was all worth it," said Milam.

During the fall semester, All-City Drill Team try-outs were held, resulting in ten Debs being elected for this honor. At competition in April the Debs received sweepstakes and judge's award, along with titles of Texas Pom-Pom Champions and Texas Military Champions.

The Goldjackets also began the 1985-86 school year on an upbeat note by participating in the annual Labor Day Parade. Aside from performing at several J.V. games throughout the year, the Goldjackets competed in the Mavericks Competition in January where they received an excellent rating. The Goldjacket Awards Banquet was held in February at Gallaghers where many unique honors were given including contagious smile, most congenial and the Golden Slippers Award. Through hard work and successful competition, the Goldjackets received many well-deserved honors.

U.I.L. Participants Gain Experience

The University Interscholastic League, U.I.L. was created in 1910 and is headquartered at the University of Texas in Austin. Founded by Dr. S. E. Mezes as the Extension Bureau, the Debating League and Athletic League were later added to form the present day league.

Today, the U.I.L. is the largest organization of its kind in the world. It also has a larger number of contestants than any similar organization in the country. U.I.L. was created to give self-confidence and a sense of pride to those who excelled in their personal abilities.

U.I.L. teaches self-discipline and fair play. Students can experience teamwork while learning to do their best in any competitive activity. Competition occurs when all the practice is put to the test of performance and the true meaning of winning is doing their best and having something to show for it.

Every year, the league grows larger with the student competition becoming stronger. It takes a lot of hard work, talent and above all interest to maintain a position to compete. Those who are a part of the team do feel that it is worth the effort. Junior Steve Reeves said, "It takes a lot of homework and its very time consuming. However, advancing to regionals is one of the best things that has happened to me."

Taking time to study the script, junior Greg Goldston reviews his role as Buddy Layman in the district winning play, The Diviners.

Groups Travel To Expand Learning

Despite the threats of no-pass, no-play and attendance legislature, field trips have played a major part in the education of Garland High students. Whether a trip to downtown Dallas or an adventure reaching across the country, groups managed to plan and execute successful field trips throughout the 1985-86 school year. "Going to the Dallas Museum of Art for Academic Decathlon widened my understanding of perspective and style in art," said senior Richard Dugger. "I believe that seeing things other than the inside of Garland High School are essential for a good education".

Under the direction of sponsor Diane Leeman, the Drama Department made its annual voyage to New York City over Spring Break in March. Drama students took tours of the city and saw five Broadway shows. The Journalism department also went to New York in March. Newspaper, yearbook and Journalism I students attended workshop classes at Columbia University where they were exposed to new ideas and techniques to use in publications. "The classes really taught me a lot of things that were new to me", said junior Michelle Marles. "It made me glad that I was able to go."

In May the band went to Colorado for competition and sightseeing, and the choir members competed in Corpus Christi.

While these groups took trips across the state or even farther, others merely went across town. The government classes under Mr. Hammerle attended a court session at the Dallas County Court House, and AP History students made their way to the Omni Theatre in Ft. Worth to celebrate the end of their hard year of work.

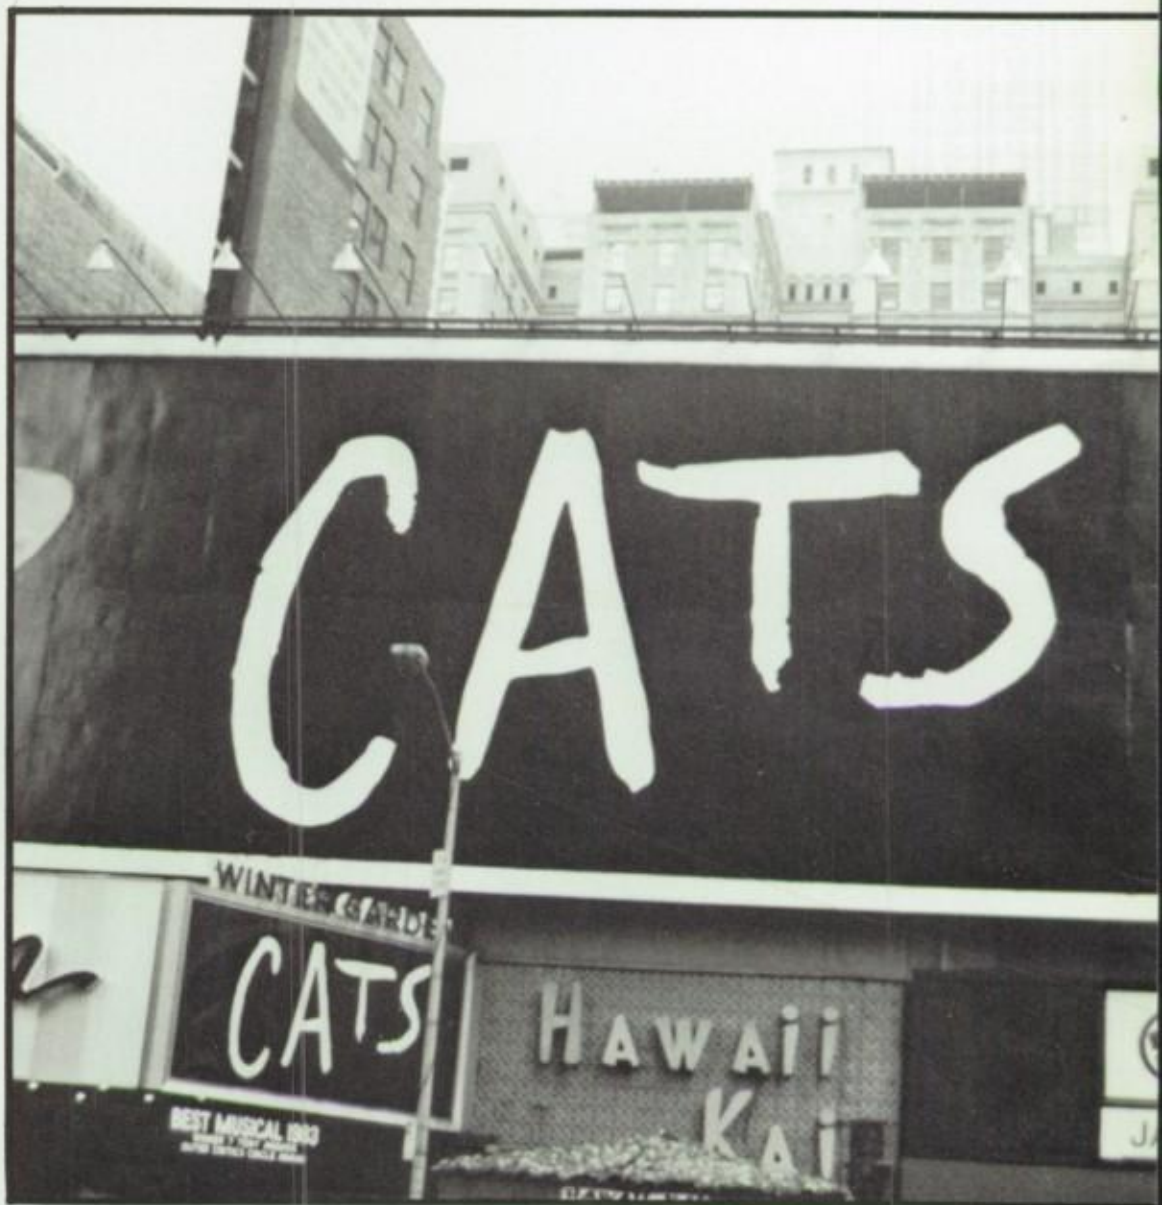

Field trips have long been a vital part of the system of learning and are continuing as strong as ever year after year.

New Law Creates Tough Standards

House Bill 72, passed by the Second Called Session of the 68th Texas Legislature in July of 1984, expanded the testing program beginning with the 1985-86 school year. This statewide minimum skills testing program is known as Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS). The TEAMS took the place of a program known as the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills (TABS), which was created in 1980.

The Texas State legislature mandated that every year students in the grades 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, and 11 take the TEAMS. Students who are enrolled in eleventh grade during 1985-86 school year (and thereafter) will not receive a high school diploma unless they have passed both sections of the exit-level test by the end of their twelfth grade year.

The major purpose behind the TEAMS test is to measure minimum basic skills competencies in reading, writing, and mathematics.

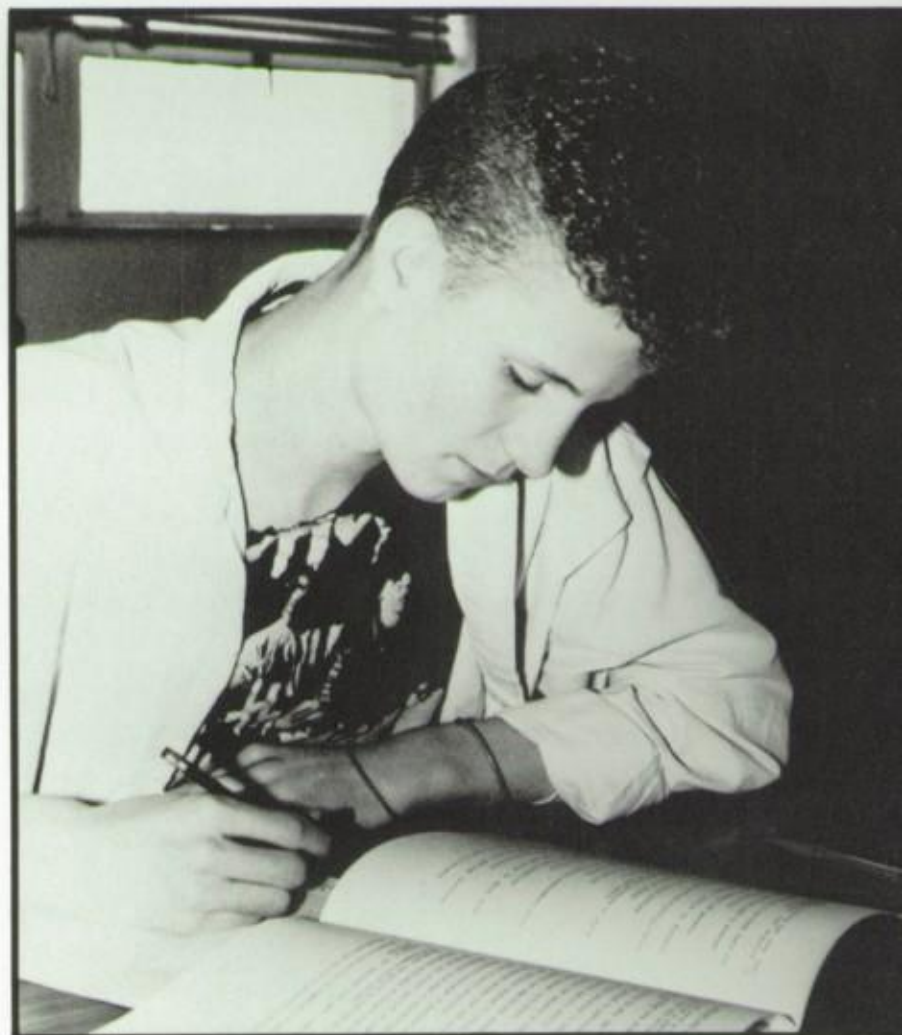

The TEAMS tests were taken on October 1 and 2 during school. The students, after taking the test, seemed to have a very positive attitude.

Most thought that the tests were fairly easy. Freshman Loudy Moreno said, "The tests were too easy," whereas freshman Carmel Alaniz said, "not only were they easy, they were also fun." Junior Joseph Cruz felt that the test was a waste of time, but he also said that he did not mind taking the test.

Administered to all freshmen in October, freshman Bethany Wright takes the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills.

After finishing the required exam, freshman Jacob Ross proofreads the answer sheet.

Completing the English portion of the exam, freshman Adam Hampson checks over his answers.

After hearing the instructions, freshman Nancy Nguyen prepares to take her test.

Following the directions for the TEAMS test, freshman Yolanda Casady bubbles in her name.

Scholastic, Service Groups Promote School Involvement

National Honor Society is an organization to which members are selected on the basis of four qualities. These qualities are scholarship, character, leadership, and service. Its members pledge to uphold these high standards for themselves and for the organization. Members of NHS participate in service projects both within the school and also in the community.

Each member is required to help an individual teacher for two hours each month. The organization provides Christmas dinner, tree, and gifts for an underprivileged family. Each student also had an out-of-school service project. These projects varied widely from visiting hospitals and nursing homes to volunteering in church nurseries. "Doing a service project for people who need help gives you a sense of accomplishment and satisfaction," said senior Melodee Walker.

Beta Club is an honor organization that is composed of juniors and seniors. The newly elected members were initiated at a reception given in their honor. Beta Club sponsored the annual sale and delivery of roses during Homecoming. Beta Club also collected canned goods to provide two needy families with Thanksgiving dinner. To bring the holidays to a close, the club had a Christmas party at Mrs. Marlene Carter's house. The members enjoyed the exchange of gag gifts. The month of March was the busiest for Beta Club. They sponsored a pie eating contest during Twirp Week. Beta also made Easter baskets for special education children at several elementary schools. The end of the year came to a close with a swimming party dedicated to the seniors, at Marlene Carter's house.

The Academic Decathlon Team is a competitive group that represents GHS in an academic contest in the Texas State Academic Decathlon program. The team is composed of juniors and seniors. The students are tested in subjects such as economics, fine arts, language, literature, mathematics, science, and social studies. The team competed in speech activities and a Super Quiz. The A-team spends many hours studying and preparing for the competition.

Arriving early, senior James Strickland prepares to assist Mrs. Lee-man as part of his N.H.S. responsibilities.

Clubs Participate In Area Competition

The Garland Future Farmers of America chapter got off to a good start this year. The FFA members won several awards by exhibiting their show animals at the Heart of Texas Fair and the State Fair in Dallas. They also attended stock shows in Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston.

In November the club sent two members to the National Convention in Kansas City, MO. The Garland Chapter received a plaque for being one of the top chapters in the State and National FFA.

The chapter's fund raiser highlighted the fall. Members sold sausage and bacon throughout the community.

"Our fund raiser was successful, as always. The community is eager to help local clubs and the sausage is always a good deal," said senior James Marles.

Closing their year, the Future Farmers held their annual livestock show. This event is held on the front lawn of Garland High and all animals are sold to the highest bidder.

In Youth and Government this year, a great deal of time was spent preparing for the district competition. Students prepared for competition in such categories as Legislative, Judicial and Executive branches of the U.S. Government. At the district level, mock trials were held and students created local problems and came up with solutions to them.

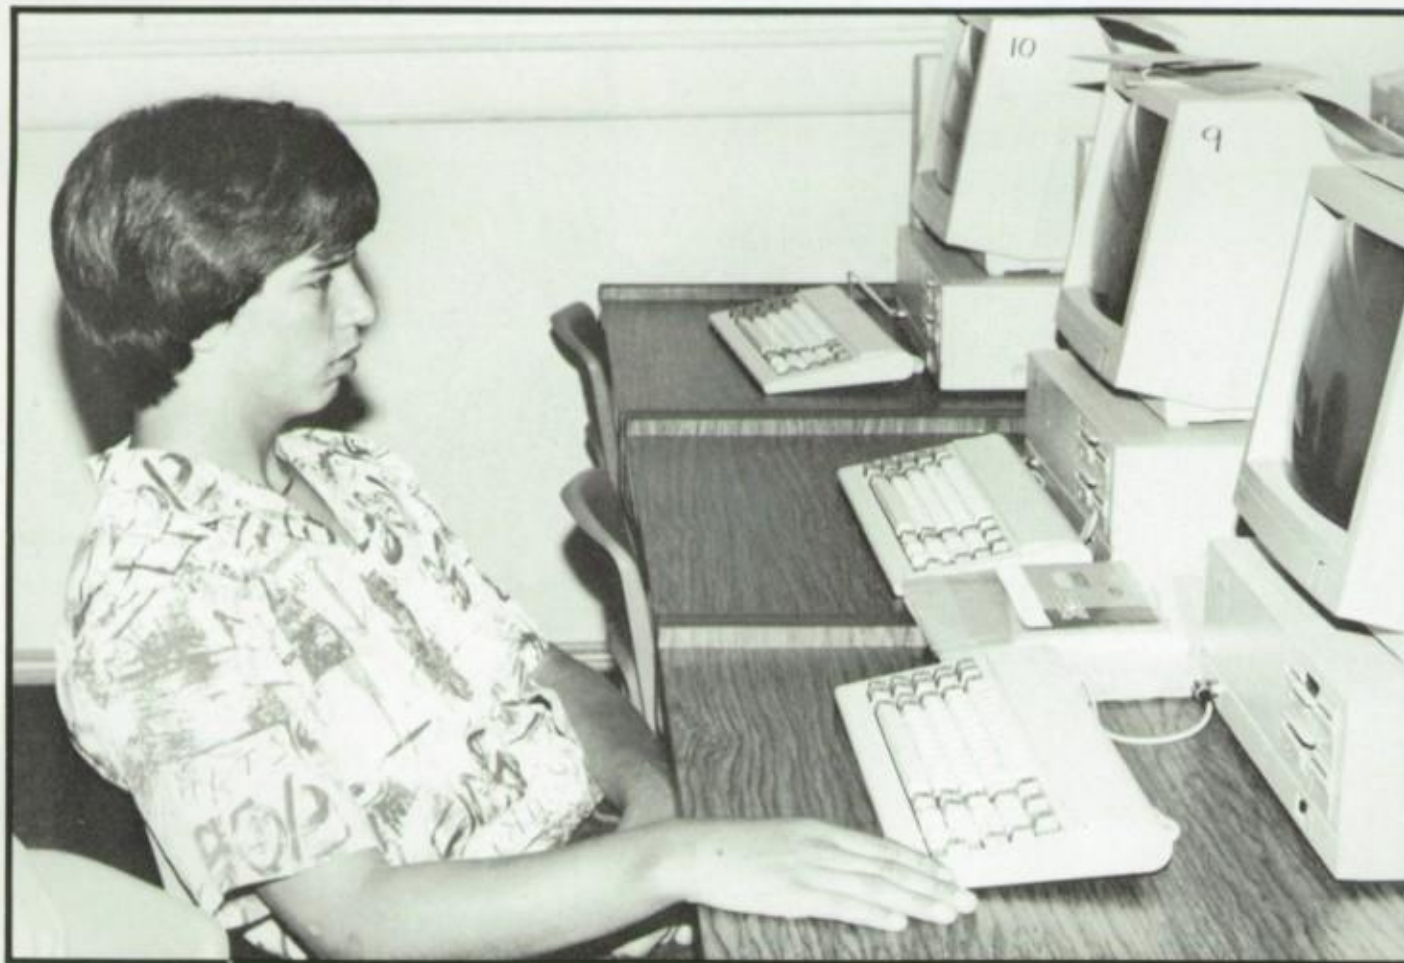

Junior Robert Knowles said, "We had a fund raiser for those who were going to the State competition, but unfortunately they didn't get to go for one reason or another. Overall the year was pretty productive."

The Computer Club held a successful fund raiser this year selling posters. "The posters were real sellers. We sold posters that appealed to everyone's tastes," said senior Tammy Barnett.

Other events throughout the year included officer elections in September, a contest in Irving and an end of the year party.

"We had a fun year. Being involved in the club has been an intellectual experience," said secretary Tammy Barnett.

Practice Results In Excellent Season

The G.H.S. Mighty Owl Band once again endured a long, eventful year of work. Under the strong leadership of Mr. Don Long and assistant Mr. James Hannah, Drum Major Dalton Lytle and the M.O.B. succeeded to excite crowds at football games and keep the high reputation that the band has always enjoyed.

Beginning in August, the band marching season would contain many hours of practice. The band rehearsed Thursdays after school and on Sunday afternoons during the fall semester, resulting in a Superior Rating at the Plano East Marching Festival and an excellent job at the U.I.L. contest.

Playing "A Sleigh Ride", percussionists Robert Quisenberry, Greg Kilgore and Otis Hume perform during the annual Christmas program.

The advent of the concert season showed that the band had matured and was playing its best in years. In May a trip to Colorado gave band members a chance to relax and compete in another band festival. Also in the spring, trombonist Steve Wiess played with the band in the Spring concert and added to the flare of the G.H.S. jazz band.

Band members will continue on after the summer with differing ideas of the greatest event of the 1985-86 year. "The Colorado trip proved to be fun in many ways," said senior Craig Barnes. Senior Karlton Powell added that "The Spring concert was the most exciting event because of the coming of Steve Wiess." Despite the different opinions, the Garland High band certainly entertained and delighted audience throughout the year.

Dedicated Students Perform Community Services

Key Club is a community service organization. Each year Key Club spends Halloween night with the patients at Memorial Hospital. During the holiday season they sponsor a canned food drive. The entire month of February was dedicated to cleaning up the campus of G.H.S. "The spring time is the busiest time of the school year," said junior Janet Clark. The Key Club sponsored the Twirp King and elected its officers during March. During spring break they sponsored an Easter egg hunt for the children at The Thelma Boston Foundation for handicapped children. An extensive membership drive as well as a District Convention was held in Dallas this year. During the summer months Key Club also stayed busy.

Student Council as well as Key Club is a community service organization which includes representatives from every grade. Student Council organizes many extra-curricular activities like Pop Ball and Homecoming. Students that attended Homecoming enjoyed "A Night on the Nile". Everyone at the Popularity Ball was welcomed by the beautiful decorations of "Enchantment Under the Sea." Student Council was also responsible for counting and passing out the nominees invitations. Student Council also sponsored an all day field trip for the Cooperative Training Center at which they had an Easter egg hunt and lunch from Grandy's as well as other games and activities. In the spring time new members were elected

Another organization that is entirely composed of hard working and dedicated students is Senior Assembly Committee. SAC tries to capture all the special moments and events that occur throughout the senior year. The committee is completely funded by the senior class. The members of SAC spend many hours after school trying to prepare for the assembly. "Towards the end of the year we were spending about two hours after school every day," said senior Preston Peterson. The program consists of a feature slide show that is set to music. SAC set the show to the theme of "Somewhere in Time". "The show is a very memorable contribution to the class," commented Jesse Beason.

Club Members Take Time To Relax

Beginning the year with the annual fall play entitled "The Man Who Came to Dinner," the G.H.S. Drama Department once again showed students the quality of its productions. During the second semester, Thespians won U.I.L. competition at district and zone with "The Diviners".

While not working on one of the two plays produced this year, drama students stayed busy competing in prose and poetry contests at the district and regional level.

A Christmas party featuring Santa and his elves highlighted the holiday season, and students went on their annual trip to New York during Spring Break.

Expanding interests beyond school activities, students filmed a commercial for a local furniture company.

The Bio-Chem club's highlight was a trip to the Dallas Zoo where they observed many different animals in their natural environments. Club members also visited the Botanical Gardens. "The Botanical Gardens were a very beautiful experience with nature," said sophomore Lori Elton.

The S.A.D.D. chapter of Garland High worked throughout the year to pass their message across to other students. Starting with a bake sale at the beginning of the year to raise money, S.A.D.D. members worked to tell students that "Friends don't let friends drive drunk."

This year the Fellowship of Christian Athletes had a "very successful year," according to the club's sponsor, Lee Ferrell.

FCA's major fundraiser this year was the end of the year school dance, which many said was "the most successful dance of the year."

"It was definitely a success," said senior Nick Siratt, "It was a major fundraiser for us and it was a last chance for the seniors to get together and have some fun before graduation."

Along with the fundraiser, FCA got together at Ranger games and at Maverick games. "The major idea behind the club is to show that athletes can get together as Christians and have fun," said Ferrell.

Language Clubs Offer Foreign Experiences

Spanish Club began the year with a Mexican fiesta, complete with all the trimmings. The stuffed animal sale brought a considerable amount of money into the Spanish Club treasury. For a Christmas celebration, they had a party with a Mexican Pinata. "Spanish Club was a lot of fun and a great experience," commented junior Elaine Tressler.

Spanish Club held a bake sale at Kroger's. They also had a farewell dinner for coach Duran, who will be leaving Garland High school.

The Latin Club is highly active in involving all its members in its activities. Among these are several club sponsored parties held at various times throughout the year. "We had one at Halloween, Thanksgiving, and Christmas. It is always fun to get together," said junior Jill Reed.

"The Latin Club also enjoyed eating at Magic Time Machine and A Taste of Italy along with a trip to the Omni Theater. The club's only fund raiser was a bake sale." All the money we raised enabled us to go on all of our trips," said senior Preston Peterson.

The French Club, like Latin Club, enjoyed many trips this year. They had lunch at fine restaurants including La Tarine and Fête de Francais. Neiman Marcus sponsored a French culture awareness week. "The French Club members enjoyed themselves thoroughly," said sponsor Fonda Quinn.

Taking a break from their French class, freshmen Jenise Watson, Paula Englutt, Lisa Meador and Dinah Mowery sit on the steps in the AD Wing.

New York City, Awards Result In A Successful Year For Journalism

The Journalism Department had a tough act to follow. All of 1985's accomplishments that were fresh in everyone's minds seemed to overshadow the job that needed to be done. Luckily, however, journalism students took this as a challenge rather than a damper and set out to make the best newspaper and yearbook ever seen.

Starting out the year with a front page article on the new requirements for graduation found in the TEAMS tests, the OWL'S EYE staff worked to inform and entertain students.

The newspaper staff went on to show excellence and talent as the year progressed, resulting in an Achievement of Merit being awarded in Austin. "It is always nice to be appreciated for the hard work that you put out," said senior Todd Paige, OWL'S EYE editor.

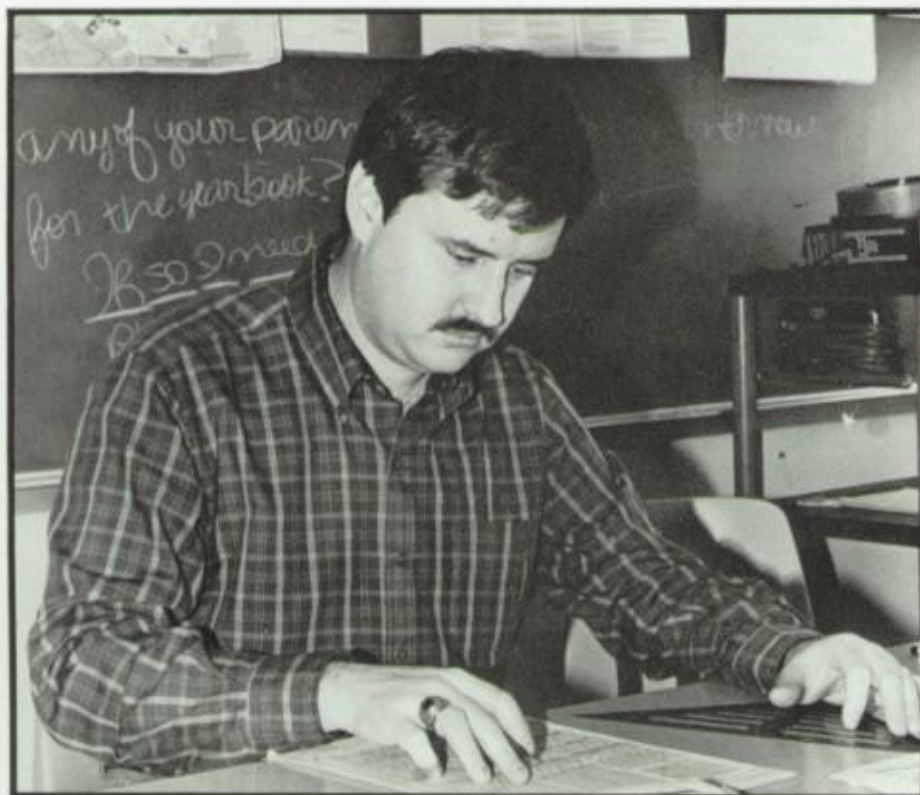

This year's OWL'S NEST staff spent the first part of the school year selling advertisements and deciding on theme possibilities. Finally, when "Some Impressions Never Fade" was chosen as the theme, the staff went to work to create a yearbook that would be remembered and appreciated by all.

Journalism students took a break in late March and went to New York City for workshops and sightseeing. The trip offered not only a chance to learn more about publication work, but a break in the everyday toil of copywriting and drawing layouts.

Under the direction of sponsor Frank Cruse, the journalism department has cultivated the ideals of distinction and originality that make publications unique and superior.

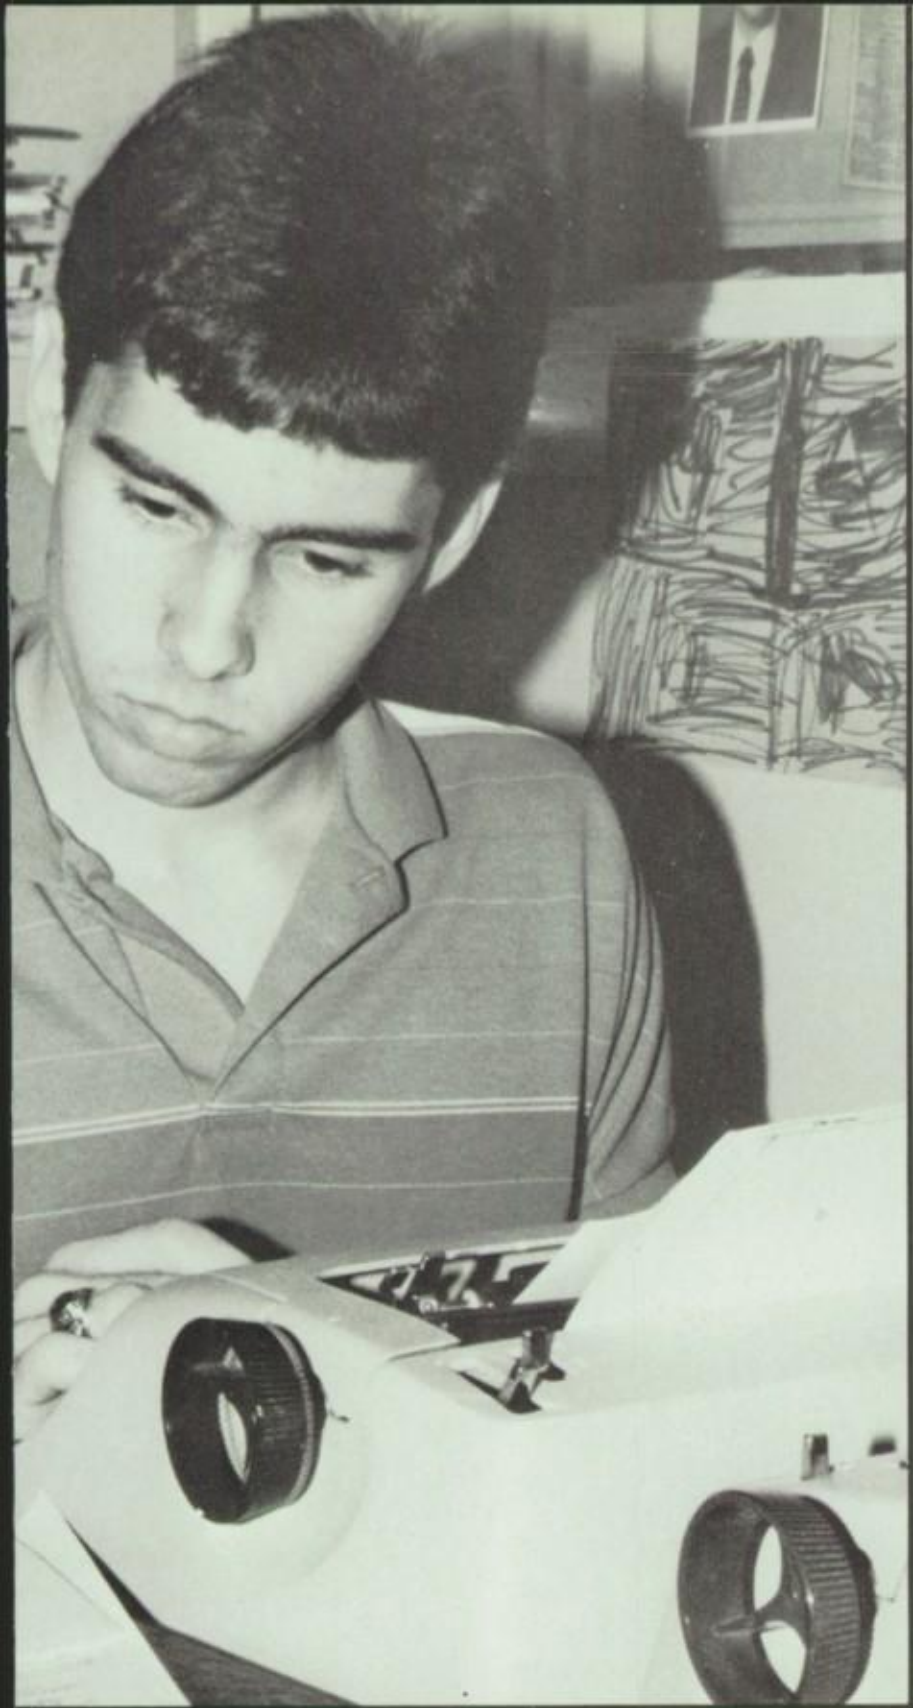

Typing on an editorial, managing editor Doug Brennan completes the May newspaper deadline.

Choirs Bring Home Sweepstakes

The Choir Department was off and running as the school year began. They raised several thousand dollars by selling World's Finest Chocolate. This money helped to buy music for the year. The

A Capella Choir was invited to perform at Baylor University in a choir clinic and got outstanding reviews. All three choirs plus "Celebrations" performed at the Fall Concert and really put on a show! "The holidays rolled around and "Celebrations" was doing a concert every time we turned around," said senior Teri Travis." A Capella was asked to perform at the Galleria and did an outstanding job. The Christmas Concert in which all choirs performed, "... was very special as it ended with "O Holy Night", sung by candlelight out in the audience," said junior Lainie Crites.

The second semester started off with the Dinner Show. It was a huge success with thirty people involved and the theme being "Broadway". Mrs. Bezusko and the Art Department did a fabulous job with the posters and sets for the show.

U.I.L. competition in April involved five G.H.S. choirs. Each choir prepared three songs, and sight sung a piece that they had never seen, after only six minutes of study. Both A Capella choir and men's choir received the Sweepstakes Award.

A Capella choir went to Corpus Christi the first weekend in May. They competed at the Buchaneer Music Festival then had some fun in the sun. "It is always an exciting trip," exclaimed junior Cindy Broughton. The year came to an end with the spring concert, a farewell and good-luck wish to the seniors, announcements of Capella and "Celebrations" and the anticipation of a new year.

Vocational Students Prepare For Business World

DECA held a canned food drive for the needy families in November. During the football season, DECA continued its traditional selling of carnations. The spirit carnations were sold on the day of each home football game. Senior Michelle Williams explained, "We make a tremendous amount of money from the carnation sales, now it has become a tradition." In December the club held a Christmas party for underprivileged kindergarten students of "Head Start."

VICA is composed of three separate clubs. The club's goal is to help its members to prepare for the business world. The members are encouraged to get involved in some type of post high school education. "Several club meetings focused on continuing education," said sponsor Milt Rogers. Guest speakers presented convincing presentations on the value of post high school education or training.

Another vocational group that focuses on preparing students for jobs after graduation is OEA. OEA sponsored its annual employer appreciation luncheon and canned food drive for needy families. Additional funds are used for purchasing equipment that is beneficial to all students. Mrs. Mary Lou Millsap said, "All our club funds are spent on equipment for the classroom."

Preparing to enter information in the computer, senior Darla Patton looks through a data book.

Reading through his vocational manual, junior David Richey studies for a class discussion.

Working in the computer room, senior Sally Martinez checks her homework before class begins.

Listening to a guest speaker, seniors Don Coburn and Dale Shaw take part in a class discussion.

Students Study Urban Domestic Life

Only students who are enrolled in either Health Care Science or in Health Occupations Cooperative Education classes are eligible to become members of HOSA. In the fall, officers of HOSA were able to participate in a leadership conference at North Texas State University.

In February, HOSA members participated in job seeking skills, extemporaneous display and medical lab skills. Senior Tammy Schilling placed second in job seeking skills and progressed to state competition.

The child care chapter of Future Homemakers of America incorporates its study of young children into FHA activities. A teddy-bear tea started the year, allowing child-care students to get acquainted. Completing a successful fund-raising project, helping a needy family at Christmas, celebrating National FHA week, and participating in the regional and state FHA leadership meetings made it a busy year.

On May 1, HOCT students had their employer banquet. Students from all four high schools and their employers attended the banquet held at Garland High. HOCT gave a Health Occupations Employer Scholarship to Tammy Schilling on Awards Day this year.

HECE activities for the year included a Christmas party at Godfathers Pizza and secret pals among the club members. In February, members made posters for Vocation Education Week to advertise HECE. For fund-raising, candy was sold in the spring. Money from this activity was used throughout the year and to give scholarships to two deserving seniors enrolled in the program.

Working in the vocational room, sophomore Tammy Breedlove continues her study of the work world in health occupations.
